MAN ADMITS HALL-MILLS MURDER

PRISONER GUARDED AWAITING OPINION FROM AUTHORITIES

Confesses He Acted For Jersey Dentist Who Paid Him $5,000

EL RENO, Okla., April 19.—Elwin F. Allen, 28, serving a sentence in the Oklahoma penitentiary for forgery and transferred here for trial on a burglary charge in this county, was held incommunicado in county jail today while authorities awaited an expression from New Jersey officials on his nine page confession that he murdered Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills near New Brunswick, N. J., September 14, 1922.

County Attorney W. P. Morrison and Sheriff T. C. Shacklett, to whom the confession was made, said they had nothing on which to base an opinion of Allen's sincerity except that of his descriptions of the principals in the Hall-Mills murder and the later trial, tallied strikingly with pictures which the officials secured for purposes of comparison.

Allen informed the authorities he was making his confession to "get something off my conscience," according to his story. He is the son of American parents but was born in Mexico. He served a term for mail robbery as a boy in the Meriden, Connecticut reform school, he said. Portions of Allen's confession which named a Newark, N. J., dentist whom he said paid him $5,000 and gave him an automobile for committing the murder, were withheld by County Attorney Morrison pending word from New Jersey.

The gist of the confession, submerged in a mass of detail, is that Allen held up Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills as they sat in a parked car, compelled them to drive into a corn field and there shot both. After carrying the bodies to the spot where they were later found, in what he termed "Plum Lane," Allen drove their car to Vernon, Del., and burned it, he said.

The confession further referred to a woman accomplice who Allen says was his common law wife and who, he says, held Mrs. Mills and prevented her escape while he was killing the clergyman. Allen refused to name the woman.

NURSE SENTENCED ON MURDER CHARGE

AKRON, O., April 19.—Mrs. Margaret Coakley, 30, Kenmore street, today received a sentence of from one to twenty years in the state reformatory for women at Marysville for the fatal shooting of Charles Christoff, 32. Mrs. Coakley was sentenced yesterday here by Judge E. D. Fritch after a jury, consisting of eight men and four women, who deliberated one hour, found the woman guilty of manslaughter.

Christoff was shot last month with a rifle, while visiting Mrs. Coakley, authorities said. Mrs. Coakley, according to police, said Christoff was an unwelcome visitor at her home and that she fired when he refused to leave.

THREE INJURED AS AIRPLANE CRASHES

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 19.—Three men are in a hospital here today recovering from injuries suffered when an airplane in which they were flying crashed and was destroyed by fire physicians declared.

LOS ANGELES, April 19.—Suit will be filed in Superior Court here some time today by Mrs. Shelby Morrall Somerset, former Texas girl, asking a decree of divorce from Pat Somerset, noted English actor. It was announced by Chas. B. Hazelhurst, Mrs. Somerset's attorney.

Alleging that he had administered a severe beating upon her in a San Francisco hotel, Mrs. Somerset swore to a complaint, upon her arrival from the northern California city, asking a divorce on grounds of cruelty and non-support.

SCRIBE FACES PERILS TO REACH FLYERS

CLARKE CITY, Que., April 19.—The travail and perils of trying to reach Greenly Island, where the Bremen was forced down, were almost as great as the trans-Atlantic flight itself.

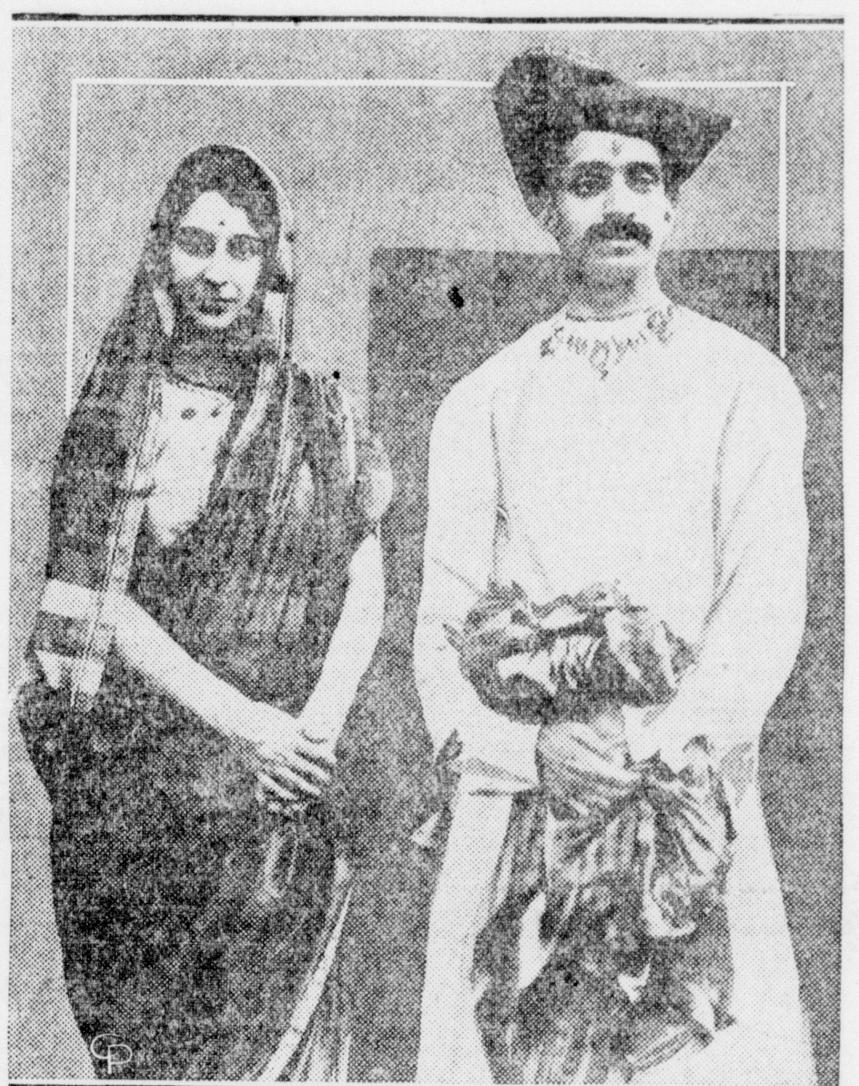

Leslie Roberts, correspondent of International News Service, who set out for Greenly Island to interview Capt. Hermann Koehl, Baron Von Huenefeld and Major James E. Fitzmaurice, passed through a series of wild adventures before being compelled to land here from his airplane.

"We left Quebec City by special train on Saturday," said Roberts. "We went from Murray Bay to the nearby air port by motor car. On Sunday morning we hopped off at Lake St. Agnes but a gale compelled us to land. Two more times we tried to fly away but were forced down by wind and snow. Romeo Vachon, the pilot, was cheerful and confident. He said he would keep on trying. But it was not until Monday that we finally got away only to be forced down here.

"The flight from Lake St. Agnes to Clarke City was beset by perils. Fog and snow made the air almost as dark as midnight and we were battered by variable winds throughout. We lost our way and flew up and down the valley of the Manitouan River for hours before we could find any land mark to guide us."

(NOTE.—Clarke City adjoins Seven Islands where Roberts was first reported to have landed. Roberts planned to continue to Greenly Island today.)

SPRING IS HERE
WASHINGTON, April 19.—Proof that "in the spring a young man's fancy etc." was demonstrated here today, when Winfield F. Not caring for long engagements, the happy couple will be married immediately.

CHINESE ADMITTED TO GOVERNING PART OF SHANGHAI CITY

First Representation Given
Natives On City Council

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Chinese were admitted today to the governing power in Shanghai, the great metropolis of the Orient, for the first time since the treaty powers set up the international settlement there seventy-five years ago.

Details of the new arrangements were communicated to the state department by Consul General Cunningham at Shanghai.

Under a formula approved by Great Britain, Japan and the United States the foreign settlement has granted representation to Chinese on the Shanghai municipal council, whose jurisdiction includes virtually the entire business and residential areas of the city comprising 800,000 native and 30,000 foreign population.

Three of the nine members of the council will henceforth be Chinese elected by native taxpayers. In addition, six other natives are to be appointed by the council to membership on standing committees administering various phases of the municipal government, such as the police, sanitation, education, etc.

Effective June, all public parks, heretofore closed to all natives save servants of white residents, are to be open to all.

DETROIT AIRCRAFT SHOW WINS PRAISE OF COL. LINDBERGH

Visits Exhibit After Other Patrons Are
"Shooed" Out

DETROIT, April 19.—Col. Chas. A. Lindbergh has seen the All-American Aircraft Show, and congratulated Detroit on being the first to hold an aeronautical exposition on a truly national scale. He is spending today with Maj. Thomas G. Lanphier at Selfridge field.

When he will leave Selfridge field is "very indefinite," Colonel Lindbergh said.

At 11 o'clock last night a limousine rolled into an alley door of convention hall and the flying colonel, with a party of friends dismounted. The public had been shooed out half an hour earlier, and quite thoroughly. On no other basis would Col. Lindbergh consent to visit the hall, although he had shortened his west coast visit and come all the way from Los Angeles, principally to see the show. He landed at Selfridge at 8:30 p. m. yesterday from St. Louis in his new Ryan biplane.

When he had been once through the exhibition he made a return trip to be sure of missing nothing. He looked at every airplane and accessory booth—120 in all—partially, climbed into and out of cabins and cockpits, studied maps and photographs, and chatted amiably with the friends who accompanied him. These included Major Lanphier, Grover Leening, New York flying boat manufacturer, B. F. Mahoney and Maj. W. B. Robertson, both of St. Louis.

Hagen, Sarazen and Mahorn constitute America's hope of retaining the honor won for the last two years by Bobby Jones, amateur champion.

Also on board the Aquatania was Miss Helen Willis.

BELIEVE MANY LOST AS QUAKE HITS BULGARIA

Population Is Panic-Stricken; Damage Is Severe

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 19.—The population of a large part of Bulgaria was panic stricken today by the series of earthquakes that rocked nearly the entire kingdom throughout the night.

The property damage was heavy. It is feared that the casualties were severe.

Nearly the whole population of this city deserted their homes although no deaths were reported here. There were casualties in the suburbs however.

A terrific rainstorm followed the tremors, men, women and children dressed only in their night clothes, huddled in the fields during the night, chilled by stormy winds and drenched with rain.

Philippopolis, in the southern part of the nation, bore the brunt of the shock, many buildings were destroyed. The number of dead is unknown, owing to the interruption of communication.

Many buildings in Haslova were damaged or destroyed. The damage will run into millions of dollars.

VIENNA, April 19.—Many houses in Philippopolis, Bulgaria, were destroyed last night by an earthquake, according to word from Bucharest.

Northwest winds are driving the cold which now hovers over Michigan and the upper Missouri valley over Ohio and West Virginia.

The cold is expected to prevail about two days with warmer weather Saturday.

KELLOGG AND DAVIS WILL GREET FLYERS

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Secretary of State Kellogg and Secretary of War Davis will formally greet the Bremen crew in the national capitol of the United States upon their arrival here.

They are expected about April 26. Elaborate preparations for their accommodation and entertainment are in the hands of the newly created division of the protocol in the state department. The Bremen reception will be the first extensive undertaking of the new office.

Kellogg and Davis will motor to Bolling field, army airport, to greet the heroic conquerors of the North Atlantic. They will be accompanied by Timothy Smiddy, minister of the Irish Free State and Baron Von Pritwitz, German ambassador.

American, Russian, British and other foreign independent oil companies are competing with domestic producers for the volume of oil and gasolines demanded by the German market. The "I. G. Farbenindustrie," one of the important units of the Chemical Cartel, is extending its production.

The situation has been complicated by the establishment of the Spindolin Gesellschaft, which according to department advice, is said to be the subsidiary of an im-

BREMEN RESCUE DEVELOPMENTS

By International News Service
Captain Hermann Koehl, pilot of the Bremen, and Baron Ehrenfried Von Huenefeld, were still on the ice-bound Greenly Island today but it appeared likely that they would start back for civilization Monday.

Major James E. Fitzmaurice, who arrived at St. Agnes yesterday, after making the journey from the isolated island where the Bremen was forced to land, in two hops in "Duke" Schiller's plane, expects to fly back to his comrades tomorrow with repair parts and fuel.

A propeller to replace the one which was smashed when the Bremen landed was taken off the F-13, sister ship of the transatlantic monoplane, and is now enroute to Murray Bay, whence Fitzmaurice will take it to Greenly Island.

Highly volatized fuel is being shipped from Montreal to Murray Bay for the use of the Bremen. Fitzmaurice believes repairs on the Bremen should not take longer than two days.

A second plane of the Canadian Transcontinental Airways Co., piloted by A. Vachon and carrying newspapermen and photographers, has reached Greenly Island, company officials say. It is not believed the German fliers will avail themselves of its use to get back to civilization. They are determined to fly the Bremen to Mitchell field.

"MR. DOOLEY" PRAISES HONESTY OF MR. SINCLAIR FOR DEFENSE

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Half a dozen character witnesses offered their testimony as to Harry F. Sinclair's reputation for honesty and fair dealing today as the oil man's trial for criminal conspiracy entered the home stretch.

Ex-Senator David S. Atkins (R) of West Virginia, was among them. West Virginia, New York humorist, also added a word of praise.

Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts asked Dunne:

CONDITIONS OFF NEWFOUNDLAND ARE WORST IRISHMAN HAS ENCOUNTERED

LAKE ST. AGNES, Que., April 19.—"In all my experience I have never encountered such terrible flying conditions as exist off the coast of Newfoundland."

With this comment Major James E. Fitzmaurice expressed the opinion that he thought it quite possible that Captain Walter Hinchcliffe and the Hon. Elsie Mackay, who never were heard from after their attempt to span the Atlantic ocean in a westward flight, might have been forced to land somewhere off the bleak coast of Labrador.

"Our own flight shows the difficulty of navigating a true course in the face of fogs and strong headwinds which prevail off the American continent," the Irish flier declared.

"Just as the Bremen was swept far north of its course, so might the ship of Hinchcliffe and Miss Mackay have been swept far from its route. If this conjecture is correct, the English fliers were not as fortunate as we were in landing on an inhabited spot, close to communication lines."

Major Fitzmaurice said that the Bremen made fine progress for eight hours. At sunset, the ship ran into headwinds of high velocity. The progress of the ship was impeded but the fliers were not alarmed. They had expected to encounter headwinds.

Through the night the gales continued. But the motor putted on reassuringly. Not once during the entire flight did it falter, the Irish flier said.

Then something happened to the lighting system of the plane. Capt. Koehl was at the controls at the time. His companions used pocket flashlights to help him in his gallant attempt to keep the Bremen on her course.

Dawn broke, but with it came a dense fog which was almost as bad as the darkness. The fliers realized they were many miles off their course. They attempted to veer southward towards their scheduled route, but then found, to their dismay, that their petrol was running low.

Hope dwindled fast. There was

TROOPER MURDERS BROTHER-IN-LAW

Police said Dulong had refused to let Hamilton into the house to see Mrs. Hamilton from whom the trooper was separated two months ago.

Sinclair's lawyers are now preparing a motion picture and the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production company, were prepared to present arguments to a federal court jury here today in support of their motion for a dismissal of the $5,000,000 breach of contract suit brought against the actress and the film company by Charles H. Duell of New York.

Declaring that the suit has already been settled by a federal court in New York, the defense attorneys moved for dismissal when the case came to trial here. Duell's suit is based on the allegation that Miss Gish broke a contract with him after he had elevated her to stardom.

The actress is now enroute to Europe.

FITZMAURICE WILL BRING REPAIRS FOR TRANS-OCEAN PLANE

May Leave Monday;
Junkers Engineer Also
Rushes Aid

CLARKE CITY, Que., April 19.—The first definite and official information as to the plans of Baron Von Huenefeld and Capt. Hermann Koehl, of the German transatlantic plane Bremen, was received here today by radio and dog sledge from Greenly Island where the famous ship landed.

Baron Von Huenefeld, in a statement to International News Service, revealed that the fliers are still determined to reach New York in the Bremen.

"After the arrival of aviator Charles A. ('Duke') Schiller at Greenly Island it was determined that Major James E. Fitzmaurice should fly back to Murray Bay with Schiller for replacement parts so that the Bremen could be repaired," said the baron. "We decided to repair the undercarriage and put a new propeller on the plane and then the three of us would continue our flight to Mitchell field."

"Fitzmaurice did not desert us. There was no misunderstanding. He merely returned to civilization from our lonely outpost to get spare parts for the machine. Capt. Koehl, Dr. Louis Guisner and the mechanic of the Schiller plane decided to remain here at Greenly Island with me when Fitzmaurice hopped off for Murray Bay. I hope that Fitzmaurice will be back this evening or tomorrow. I think the repairs can be made in a day so that we may be able to hop off on Saturday."

The baron said that the last half of the journey was made under frightful conditions, with fog so thick that nothing could be seen. He sat in the back of the plane while Koehl and Fitzmaurice took turns at the controls. He slept at intervals and in his waking moments killed time by writing poetry.

"It was Fitzmaurice who first discovered land," said the baron. "He told Koehl and we set off flares to see if we could get any response. The flares lit up the air beneath us and we saw that we were flying over a dense forest."

"Koehl made out the lake and we descended. That was about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Despite the perils and the hardships of the long flight we felt sure all the time that we would succeed. First we ran into adverse winds, then rain, then fog then a gale of wind, fog and snow combined. The worst"

DEATON SUPPORTS CHARGES OF WARNER

COLUMBUS, O., April 19.—Offering his cooperation to Fred W. Warner, chairman of the Republican state central committee who yesterday demanded that the primary election in Lucas, Cuyahoga and Hamilton Counties be free of fraud and debauchery, Sherman S. Deaton, Urbana member of the state central committee, today threatened to call a meeting of the state committee to bring to justice the perpetrators if any evidence of tampering exists in next Tuesday's elections.

If the statutes are inadequate then I, for one, will aid in drafting such legislation to put a stop to these crimes against the ballot," Deaton declared. "Our security as a self governing people rests upon the purity of the ballot," the Urbana man said.

Referring to the outcome of Chicago's elections, Deaton said it should hearten the people of Ohio. He stated therefore that he was in hearty accord with Warner's declaration to put an end to corrupt elections in the Buckeye state.

BREMEN RESCUE DEVELOPMENTS

By International News Service
Captain Hermann Koehl, pilot of the Bremen, and Baron Ehrenfried Von Huenefeld, were still on the ice-bound Greenely Island today but it appeared likely that they would start back for civilization Monday.

Major James E. Fitzmaurice, who arrived at St. Agnes yesterday, after making the journey from the isolated island when the Bremen was forced to land, in two hops in "Duke" Schiller's plane, expects to fly back to his comrades tomorrow with repair parts and fuel.

A propeller to replace the one which was smashed when the Bremen landed was taken off the P-13, sister ship of the transatlantic monoplane, and is now enroute to Murray Bay, whence Fitzmaurice will take it to Greenely Island.

Highly volatile fuel is being shipped from Montreal to Murray Bay for the use of the Bremen. Fitzmaurice believes repairs on the Bremen should not take longer than two days.

A second plane of the Canadian Transcontinental Airways Co., piloted by A. Vachon and carrying newspapermen and photographers, has reached Greenely Island, company officials say. It is not believed the German fliers will avail themselves of its use to get back to civilization. They are determined to fly the Bremen to Mitchell field.

"MR. DOOLEY" PRAISES HONESTY OF MR. SINCLAIR FOR DEFENSE

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Half a dozen character witnesses offered their testimony as to Harry P. Sinclair's reputation for honesty and fair dealing today as the oil man's trial for criminal conspiracy entered the home stretch.

Ex-Senator David S. Atkins (R) of West Virginia, was among them, after Finley Dunne, New York humorist, also added a word of praise.

Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts asked:

CONDITIONS OFF NEWFOUNDLAND ARE WORST IRISHMAN HAS ENCOUNTERED

LAKE ST. AGNES, Que., April 19.—"In all my experience I have never encountered such terrible flying conditions as exist off the coast of Newfoundland."

With this comment Major James E. Fitzmaurice expressed the opinion that he thought it quite possible that Captain Walter Hinckley and the Hon. Elsie Mackay, who never were heard from after their attempt to span the Atlantic ocean in a westward flight, might have been forced to land somewhere off the bleak coast of Labrador.

"Our own flight shows the difficulty of navigating a true course in the face of fogs and strong headwinds which prevail off the American continent," the Irish flier declared.

"Just as the Bremen was swept far north of its course, so might the ship of Hinckley and Miss Mackay have been swept far from its route. If this conjecture is correct, the English fliers were not as fortunate as we were in landing on an inhabited spot, close to communication lines."

Major Fitzmaurice said that the Bremen made fine progress for eight hours. At sunset, the ship ran into headwinds of high velocity. The progress of the ship was impeded but the fliers were not alarmed. They had expected to encounter headwinds.

Through the night the gales continued, but the motor purred on reassuringly. Not once during the entire flight did it falter, the Irish flier said.

Then something happened to the lighting system of the plane, Capt. Koehl was at the controls at the time. His companions used pocket flashlights to help him in his gallant attempt to keep the Bremen on her course.

Davis broke, but with it came a dense fog which was almost as bad as the darkness. The fliers realized they were many miles off their course. They attempted to veer southward towards their scheduled route, but then found, to their dismay, that their petrol was running low.

Hope dwindled fast. There was nothing to do but keep the Bremen in the air until the last drop of fuel had been exhausted.

They kept a keen watch below for a suitable landing place. Then suddenly they noted the lighthouse of Greenely Island. Thankfully, they made for their haven and alighted on the lake near the beacon.

"We were tired but were so thankful that we had landed safely that we forgot all about our exhaustions," said Fitzmaurice.

"Those last hours in the air certainly were no joke," the flier added thoughtfully.

FITZMAURICE WILL BRING REPAIRS FOR TRANS-OCEAN PLANE

May Leave Monday;
Junkers Engineer Also
Rushes Aid

CLARKE CITY, Que., April 19.—The first definite and official information as to the plans of Baron Von Huenefeld and Capt. Hermann Koehl, of the German transatlantic plane Bremen, was received here today by radio and dog sledge from Greenely Island where the famous ship landed.

Baron Von Huenefeld in a statement to International News Service, revealed that the fliers are still determined to reach New York in the Bremen.

After the arrival of aviator Charles A. "Duke" Schiller at Greenely Island it was determined that Major James E. Fitzmaurice should fly back to Murray Bay with Schiller for replacement parts so that the Bremen could be repaired, said the baron. "We decided to repair the undercarriage and put a new propeller on the plane and then the three of us would continue our flight to Mitchell field."

"Fitzmaurice did not desert us. There was no misunderstanding. He merely returned to civilization from our lonely outpost to get spare parts for the machine. Capt. Koehl, Dr. Louis Cuisinier and the mechanic of the Schiller plane decided to remain here at Greenely Island with me when Fitzmaurice hopped off for Murray Bay. I hope that Fitzmaurice will be back this evening or tomorrow. I think the repairs can be made in a day so that we may be able to hop off on Saturday."

The baron said that the last half of the journey was made under frightful conditions, with fog so thick that nothing could be seen. He sat in the back of the plane while Koehl and Fitzmaurice took turns at the controls. He slept at intervals and in his waking moments killed time by writing poetry.

It was Fitzmaurice who first discovered land, said the baron. "He told Koehl and we set off flares to see if we could get any response. The flares lit up the air beneath us and we saw that we were flying over a dense forest."

"Koehl made out the lake and we descended. That was about 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Despite the perils and the hardships of the long flight we felt sure all the time that we would succeed. First we ran into adverse winds, then rain, then fog then a gale of wind, fog and snow combined. The worst

ORGANIZED VICE IS NATIONAL MENACE JUDGE ALLEN SAYS

Uses Chicago To Illustrate Effect Of Crime.

LIMA, O., April 19.—Asserting that the home will never be safe until organized vice and crime, "take their fingers off the throat of government," and until "the so-called Christian nations legalize the institution of organized warfare," Justice Florence E. Allen, of the Ohio Supreme Court, addressed the state convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs here last night.

"Chicago shows how the home is threatened, when there is an alliance between government and the forces of the underworld. When the decent citizens permit the less desirable class of the community to control the organized forces of government they become so defiant that ordinary law-abiding people are not safe in their homes. Houses are bombed and innocent people are shot on their way to the polls. The machine-gun takes the place of the courts as the arbiter of the conditions that shall exist."

"Give the forces of the underworld an inch and they will take infinitely more, than an ell," continued Judge Allen. "When fathers and mothers are apathetic toward conditions of government, their own children are threatened by the forces of vice and crime. This is the lesson which needs constantly to be re-emphasized wherever we consider the problems of the home."

Declaring that the suit has already been settled by a federal court in New York, the defense attorneys moved for dismissal when the case came to trial here. Duell's suit is based on the allegation that Miss Gish broke a contract with him after he had elevated her to stardom.

MISS GISH MOVES TO DISMISS SUIT

LOS ANGELES, April 19.—Attorneys representing Lillian Gish, motion picture star, and the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production company, were prepared to present arguments to a federal court jury here today in support of their motion for a dismissal of the $50,000 breach of contract suit brought against the actress and the film company by Charles H. Duell of New York.

Declaring that the suit has already been settled by a federal court in New York, the defense attorneys moved for dismissal when the case came to trial here. Duell's suit is based on the allegation that Miss Gish broke a contract with him after he had elevated her to stardom.

The actress is now enroute to Europe.

trouble were off the grand banks of Newfoundland—a district known for years in shipping circles as the graveyard of the Atlantic.

The baron told of the pleasant surprise he and his companions felt when Schiller arrived in his plane on Sunday. In the meantime the flyers were not lonesome. A number of persons had crossed Belle Isle Strait from the Labrador mainland to visit them.

Baron Von Huenefeld paid wonderful tribute to his two companions, saying that they showed the utmost courage throughout the trip. They were cheerful and never once lost hope. When the landing was made Koehl and Fitzmaurice were nearly blind from straining their eyes through the fog in an effort to see land.

MONTREAL, Que., April 18.—J. Adolph Scherer, engineer of the Junkers company, arrived here this morning with a new propeller for the trans-Atlantic plane Bremen. He left immediately afterward for Murray Bay. If weather conditions permit he may hop off for Greenly Island this afternoon.

QUEBEC, Que., April 18.—Major James E. Fitzmaurice will depart for Greenly Island in a plane of the Canadian Trans-Continental Airways company either late today or tomorrow. The trans-Atlantic flyer is expected to arrive there.

THERE is nothing quite like Bayer Aspirin for all sorts of aches and pains, but be sure it is genuine Bayer, that name must be on the package, and on every tablet. Bayer is genuine, and the word genuine—in red—is on every box. You can't go wrong if you will just look at the box when you buy it.

Fitzmaurice said he thought the repairs on the Bremen would not take more than two days. He declared that if weather conditions permitted, he was certain that he and Captain Hermann Koehl and Baron Ehrenfried Von Huenefeld would be able to fly to New York from the ice-bound Greenly Island on Monday.

Lake St. Agnes is the base of the Canadian Trans-Continental Airways Company. It is about 100 miles from Murray Bay. Major Fitzmaurice spent the night there at the company's quarters.

"Please tell everyone for me," the Irish flier said, "that I have absolutely no intention of flying to New York or anywhere else without Captain Koehl and Baron Von Huenefeld. They were in complete accord with my plan to fly here in 'Duke' Schiller's plane to get repair parts and we never at any time had any disagreeing thoughts."

Fitzmaurice returned to Greenly Island Friday. The repairs on the Bremen should not take more than two days. We will probably leave the island Monday.

"We will fly down the straits of Belle Isle to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Then we will follow the St. Lawrence River to Quebec. We will not stop at Quebec unless forced to do so. At the city we will turn straight south for Mitchell Field."

"After being received in the United States were expected to return to Ottawa and Quebec and thus show our gratification to the Canadian government for the wonderful assistance it has given us."

The distance from Lake St. Agnes to Greenly Island is about 800 miles. Whether or not Fitzmaurice will make the trip in one hop will depend upon weather conditions.

MRS. MARY HICKS DIES SUDDENLY AT HOME WEDNESDAY

Mrs. Mary A. Hicks, 61, widow of Homer Hicks, Xenia business man, was found dead in her bed at her home, 67 Hill St., Thursday morning at 8 o'clock. Death had taken place about 10:30 o'clock Wednesday night, Coroner F. M. Chambliss reported.

Mrs. Hicks had not been in good health for two years and regained health the past year. She was able to be about the house Wednesday and seemed in her usual health about 10 p. m., according to Lawrence Smith, who tended her funeral. Mr. Smith found her dead.

Coroner Chambliss pronounced death due to acute indigestion and heart trouble.

Mrs. Hicks was born in Xenia, January 15, 1867 and lived in this city all her life. Mr. Hicks preceded her in death twenty years. He operated a shot store on E. Main St. for many years.

The deceased leaves three children, Homer, at home and two daughters, Miss Jane Hicks, nurse at the Good Samaritan Hospital, Cincinnati and Mrs. Virgil Allen, Dayton. One brother, M. J. Dugan

Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and easy way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE. Adv.

SEWER EXTENSION IS AUTHORIZED AT YELLOW SPRINGS

Steps were taken at a recent meeting of the Yellow Springs village council authorizing the construction of two miles of the approved general sewer system plan for the village this summer.

Council adopted a resolution declaring it necessary to construct four sections of sewer—three sections to provide connection with the new high school building under construction, small trunk sewer from Glen St., to the school, and a fourth unit of 3,500 feet to accommodate new building construction at the college.

The school's share of the expense is placed at $3,000, but if the new joint school board fails to vote the appropriation, the only unit constructed will be that adjoining college property, as petitioned for. The total cost is placed at $10,000.

Under a contract with Edwin S. Kelly, owner of Whitehall Farm, for payment for a two-acre tract of ground on which the new waterworks plant will be erected, the village has agreed to furnish the farm with the same amount of water it now uses, free of charge for twenty years. Waterworks experts estimate that this usage at a maximum will average 4,000 gallons a day.

Councilmen and citizens of the village also discussed the gas rate situation at great length. It appears probable that if a satisfactory arrangement cannot be reached ed with the Western Ohio Public Service Co., which supplies gas to the village under the present agreement, a home company may be formed or the village may undertake to buy gas and furnish the village through its board of public affairs, which now operates the municipal light project and the waterworks plant now being installed.

Don't Make a Toy Out of Baby—Babies Have Nerves
By RUTH BRITAIN

Much of the nervousness in older children can be traced to the overstimulation during infancy, caused by regarding baby as a sort of animated toy for the amusement of parents, relatives and friends. Baby may be played with, but not for more than a quarter of an hour to an hour daily. Beyond that, being handled, tickled, caused to laugh or even scream, will sometimes result in vomiting and invariably causes irritability, crying or sleeplessness.

Pretentious, crying and sleeplessness from this cause can easily be avoided by treating baby with more consideration, but when you just can't see what is making baby restless or upset, better give him a few drops of pure, harmless Castoria. It's amazing to see how quickly it calms baby's nerves and soothes him to sleep; yet it contains no drugs or opiates. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper. Leading physicians prescribe it for colic, cholera, diarrhea, constipation, gas on stomach and bowels, feverishness, loss of sleep and all other "upsets" of babyhood. Over 25 million bottles used a year shows its overwhelming popularity.

With each bottle of Castoria, you get a book on Motherhood, worth its weight in gold. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package so you'll get genuine Castoria. There are many imitations. Adv.

REDUCTION IN LOSS OF LIVESTOCK FROM SHIPPING SOUGHT

County Agent J. R. Kimber, A. A. Conklin and L. E. Evans represented Greene County at the opening session Wednesday of the fourth annual two-day convention of the Ohio Livestock Loss Preventive Association at the Van Cleve Hotel, Dayton, O.

The Greene County men attended the afternoon session and the banquet that evening. Speakers pointed out that millions of dollars are lost annually in live stock in transit, of which a large part consists of bruised meats thrown out by packers, a situation which eventually reflects back on the producer.

Ways and means to bring about a reduction in the great yearly loss were discussed. The meeting was of vital interest to all live stock carriers, including live stock dealers, railroads, stockyards and packing houses. All branches of the industry were represented at the convention.

Farmers are urged to prepare more carefully their live stock for shipping.

Poems that Live

LONGING

Come to me in my dreams, and then
By day I shall be well again!
For then the night will more than pay
The hopeless longing of the day.

Come as thou canst a thousand times,
A messenger from radiant climes,
And smile on thy new world, and be
As kind to others as to me!

Or, as thou never canst in sooth,
Come now, and let me dream in truth;
And part my hair, and kiss my brow,
And say: My love! why sufferest thou?

Come to me in my dreams, and then
By day I shall be well again!
For then the night will more than pay
The hopeless longing of the day.

—Matthew Arnold (1822-1888)

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE FACES LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION CHARGE

An affidavit charging unlawful furnishing of liquor was filed in Probate Court Wednesday against James Seymour, Cincinnati, colored, reputed "under cover" dry agent of the "informers" type, said to have been sent here by the Cincinnati District of the Anti-Saloon League, who assisted in an investigation into alleged bootlegging activities in Greene County that produced nine arrests last week.

Seymour appeared in court and pleaded not guilty. He was released on his own recognizance pending a hearing, date for which has not been set by Judge S. C. Wright.

The affidavit was signed by George Holstein, Xenia junk dealer. The counter affidavit is believed to have been filed in retaliation for affidavits previously filed against Holstein and signed by Seymour, charging illegal possession and transportation of liquor.

Holstein pleaded not guilty to both charges and his hearing is scheduled for next Tuesday in Probate Court.

Seymour was also recently named co-defendant with a companion colored federal agent in a $5,000 damage suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Mrs. Norma Warwick, colored, Columbus Pike, who alleged false arrest.

CHARLIE BIRGER IS KILLED ON GALLOWS FOR ADAMS MURDER

BENTON, Ill., April 19.—Charlie Birger, "scourge of Egypt," went to his death on the gallows here at 9:51 a. m. today for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, Ill.

Birger was led from his cell at 9:45. He walked the short distance to the gallows unassisted and once upon the wooden structure, waved his hands to the vast throng that had gathered to see the "scourge" in his last minutes on earth.

State's Attorney Roy Martin and Sheriff James Pritchard approached him and said a few words. Birger assumed an air of gaiety which the strain on his face belied.

No once during the long night had Birger closed his eyes.

When dawn came he was asked if he wished anything to eat. "Yeah," drawled the gangster. "Yeah, gimme a couple ounces of carboic acid."

When it came time to lead him to the gallows, Birger as if with a great effort drew himself into a semblance of composure. He waived assistance in walking up the scaffold steps.

The noose was adjusted about his neck and the execution robe was fastened about his small, lean body.

The trap was sprung at 9:51 and he was pronounced dead at 9:58.

"HEAD-HOLDER" IS BEST PAID

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The highest paid worker in slaughter house operations is the "head-holder" in the cattle killing division. His wages in 1922 averaged $1.06 an hour.

Full-time weekly earnings of all classes averaged $24.79 for the year, the labor department announced in publishing a survey of conditions in eighty-six slaughtering plants employing 60,000 workers.

Men averaged $25.64 weekly and women, $17.87. The average working week was 49.3 hours—a little more than eight hours a day.

Average hourly wages advanced from 26.2 in 1917 to 50.1 cents in 1927.

Weekly average wages for all operations were $23.67 in 1921; $24.63 in 1923; $24.65 in 1925.

OCEAN HOPPERS TO VISIT IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, April 19.—Chicago thrilled today over the news that the three trans-Atlantic fliers, temporarily marooned at (Greenly Island, had accepted Mayor Thompson's invitation to visit Chicago.

The fliers are scheduled to reach here next Saturday, April 28, after they visit New York and Washington. The greatest celebration since the Armistice is being planned for their arrival.

The aviators, it is understood, will come by plane, perhaps in the Bremen itself.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GRACE AND GLORY—Wisdom shall give to thine head an ornament of grace: a crown of glory shall she deliver to thee. Prov. 4:9.

OVERCOMING FARM DIFFICULTIES

People living in cities and towns sometimes think the farmers of the country are not fully up to date folks. But these farmers, besides being well up with the modern times, have always shown a certain indomitable spirit that everyone should admire.

Very frequently it happens that the farmers lost their crops. But after that distressing experience, which would take the courage all out of most town dwellers, they do not usually quit discouraged. At the post, Browning put it, in regard to a different kind of experience, "they are baffled to fight better. The experience of getting licked, simply induces them to pick themselves up and keep on struggling again.

Every time one of these farmers puts a crop into the soil, he knows it is a gamble whether he gets anything for his effort or not. He may work hard for weeks and weeks, and then see droughts or storms or insect pests come and play the mischief with his growing grain and plants, all his season's labor counting for nothing. It takes real manhood to stand up under such experiences.

Of course there are some farmers who do give up after a series of misfortunes, and some are forced into bankruptcy by hard luck. But the greater part of them keep digging at the same old game, learning something each year out of the failures, doing a little better next time, and gradually getting a mastery of their situation.

GOOD STUDENTS REWARDED

College and high school students, who are not athletic, often complain that the athletes get most of the social recognition. Such ones can be consoled by the recent statement of the head of the bureau of employment of New York university, who remarks there are not many college men idle. Also he notes that the demand for the best students is very large. Also no doubt the good students in the high schools are also more in demand than those who are not so good.

Those who have taken high marks in their studies show that they have brains, industry, and the ability to absorb ideas. The business world here in Ohio is looking for such students.

ROADS TO FAME

One of America's most famous men, Chauncey Depew, attained that fame to a large extent by his gifts as an after dinner speaker. Although he had a career of great achievement in the business world, yet the after dinner speechmaking probably did the most to spread his fame. Somehow those graceful and witty words of his found their way into every home.

There are multitudes of after dinner speakers in this country, and many more who think they are, but really aren't. They might well take Mr. Depew as a model.

Mr. Depew made free use of humor. When you get people to laughing at the incongruities of life, you send away the glooms that inhibit their natures, and they are ready to receive information or to be moved by inspiring talk. A good after dinner speaker first amuses, then he informs, and then he inspires. Mr. Depew did all three things.

THRILLS

Don't condemn young folks of today for wanting thrills. What we need most to do is to lead them into wanting the right sort of thrills. Can't expect youth not to have pep, to want to go and do and see. But here are thrills in work—interesting, snappy work. There are thrills in some of the greatest books ever written. There are thrills in the best music. It is not wrong to look for and to find thrills. There are plenty in life. We do not have to look for them in the gutter.

IDEAS FOR THE MOVIES

Some of the motion picture producers find business bad. Hermann, German novelist who helped prepare one of the most successful screen productions gives the reason. He says the industry is hard hit because of lack of ideas. People are tired going to the same kind of shows, knowing in advance just how everything is going to turn out. They are tired of seeing the same stars exploited, regardless of how good or bad the picture is. The big owners must find new and better directors. The directors must find new and better talent. The people demand ideas. The motion pictures need ideas.

DEBATING

Th world would be a dull place without some good debating, without some controversial matter. Along comes the British hand of the law and says that in England "controversial matter" must not be broadcast. That doesn't sound like England, which permits street corner speakers to lambast the government and even talk about the king. England should show no reversal of form on the radio. We don't want censorship of speeches over the radio any more than we want censorship anywhere. Let the people hear. Trust them to make up their minds.

STARTING

The hardest thing is not work. The hardest thing is STARTING work. In the time we fiddle around before getting under way we might have the most difficult job half done. Things are rarely as hard to do as we think they are going to be. We suffer most in anticipation. It's really fear that keeps us from starting. The water's fine when we get in. The least pain comes when we plunge. The wind is the coldest when we dawdle along the bank.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, April 19. — Broadway is never without its Big Spender. The gentleman who fills the role, currently, is Frederick Perry, visiting owner of American-patronized resorts in Cuba.

Like the famous Diamond Jim Brady, he thinks it's lots of fun being a sucker if you can afford it. The way he is flinging money around is the talk of Times Square.

Leaving Texas Guinan's club the other morning, he distributed $500 bills to a solo singer, the orchestra leader and the headwaiter, and specie of other eye-popping denominations to lesser owners of itching palms.

Deems Taylor, composer of the most successful American opera, "The King's Henchman," is in Paris, composing another, but he isn't living off of the royalties of his music. A hundred or two dollars each the time the Metropolitan produces "The King's Henchman," which is infrequently is all that he receives for adding an American to the list of enduring operatic composers, although every performance of the piece is crowded.

On the other hand, Billy Rose, who isn't 30 yet, has made as much as $75,000 a year from his songs, which include "Barney Google," "Don't Bring Lulu," "You've Gotta See Mamma Every Night Or You Can't See Mamma at All," and a score of others. He started writing them while private secretary to Bernard Baruch, the financier. Now he's a financier himself.

The huds are bursting on trees in 133th street, between 7th and 8th avenues, where there is more overhanging foliage than in any other Manhattan block. The conventions regulating residence in this block are very strict. Children are not permitted to be noisy. Newspaper-hawkers, peddlers, solicitors and such are barred. Persons are not allowed to move in the daytime. Deliveries must be made by rear alleys. Dwellers must not lean out of their windows. Music and loud talking are banned after midnight. Only doctors or lawyers may have designations on their houses, and other signs and stores and shops are prohibited.

This block is better known as Striver's Row ("You have to strive to stay there.") It is the Park avenue of Harlem's negro aristocracy.

Harry Herfield reports that a merchant in Rivington street keeps record of all impending weddings, and after the honeymoons are over goes around and buys up the duplicates at his own price!

MAKING FOLKS THINK THEY'RE HAPPY

A hotel man, who conducted a small mountain inn for summer tourists, found that no investment was so beneficial to his trade as having a good set of scales on the veranda. Many hotels had scales that required a nickel in the slot. At this place weighing was free. The idea was that a person on a vacation is almost certain to weigh himself of there is a set of scales conveniently near. Moreover, a person undergoing a change of scene, and not at his usual work, is likely to gain in weight. Or, if he is too heavy, he is likely to exercise and lose weight. In either event, he is pleased at what the scales show, and will have a disposition to attribute his improvement to the excellence of the place where he is staying. And if his hotel bill at the end of the week seems high he, nevertheless, is reconciled to it and says nothing.

Many suburban allotments have massive brick gateposts, with stone caps, at the entrance, even though there are no sewers or sidewalks; and usually the comparatively slight cost of these posts is a fine investment for the man with lots to sell. They give a touch of grandeur, which the prospective buyer subconsciously associates with the entire layout.

The story is told of a western railroad general manager who dropped in at one of the eating houses provided for the construction gangs on his road, and noticed that the men were served with brown sugar. He asked the man in charge of the eating place why they didn't have ordinary granulated sugar.

"Because this is cheaper," was the reply.

"Let's see if it is," suggested the general manager. He took a teaspoon and picked up all the brown sugar the spoon would hold. It made a little mountain of sugar. Then he tried the same thing with granulated sugar, and the spoon would not hold half as much.

"You see," pointed out the general manager, "if every man uses an average of two spoonfuls in his coffee, granulated sugar is cheaper."

JUNIOR! When Junior had finished his first music lesson his teacher told him, as she stopped the metronome which had been indicating tempos on top of the piano:

"Now, my boy, you must practice when you get home."

"And, teacher," asked the boy, "shall I tell Father we must have a windshield cleaner for the piano?"

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

THE FEMINIZED BOB

The feminized mode of coiffure is delightful for the very young, charming for the not so young, and gracious in the extreme to the matron who is not young at all.

For the very young it can be achieved by soft waves, distractingly impudent tight curls, and even very soft feminine bangs on the forehead, arranged, if you please, with the skill and art of a master! For the matron of an uncertain age, chignon and transformation are very much in vogue.

One very lovely headdress is exceptionally attractive for the slender, youthful type of girl. The hair is parted in the center, worn with bangs very slightly curling on the forehead, and has a very soft wide wave. The ends of the sides, which are brought forward on the cheek, have blunt square ends. Pointed ends are slowly going out. General usage has killed them for the smart woman.

A second arrangement, which is particularly good for wear with evening clothes, is very much the same, except the bangs are not in evidence, and a medium sized chignon appears at the back.

A third feminine headdress is reminiscent of a statue of Pallas Athene. Tiny tight, round curls completely cover the back of the head. The sides are curled over—not under, which is demode—and are arranged with exact precision.

In the coiffure the pointed back appears. Incidentally it is a coiffure especially adapted to the smart woman with a rather long, slender neck.

Some Parisian masters choose to interpret the style with the loose clustered masses of ringlets, which you may perhaps have seen in pictures of the Empress Josephine. The fashion is distinctly Empire—and very feminine—but your hair must be almost shoulder length to achieve it.

An interesting, although somewhat radical hair arrangement, is already much seen in Paris, and is beginning to take hold in New York and other cosmopolitan centers. It resembles nothing so much as a cock's comb of massed curls down the center of the head from front to back.

I can hardly recommend this style for general use, but perhaps as an occasional evening coiffure it may be very effective.

Virtually anything soft, loose and feminine is bound to be correct. The curls of a forgotten era, whether they be the snail shell curls of Greek statuary, the loosely clasped ringlets of the pre-Revolutionary era in France—or the precise arrangement of the Empire period, are all good—all very much in style and all easily adaptable to the average woman. Experiment a little and remember when you achieve femininity you have struck a popular fashion note of today's mode!

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS M. D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet For Children"

WHITE BREAD VS. GRAHAM BREAD

I was having lunch with a friend I hadn't met for years. As I took a roll made of white bread, she burst out with, "Why, Doctor, how can you eat anything made of white flour? Don't you, of all people, know that white flour, polished rice, etc., are poisonous?"

As her notion is fairly widespread, I want to point out the fallacy of the idea. White bread, polished rice, white sugar, and other highly refined products, are not poisonous. It is true that they have been largely demineralized and, de-vitaminized, but they are still good fuel foods, and will not poison in the slightest degree, unless they are taken in such excess that not enough other foods which would supply their deficiencies, could be taken. However, if liberal amounts of fruits and vegetables and the proper amounts of milk, meat and eggs are taken, there is no reason why those who like white bread and polished rice should not take them, if they want them.

Another count against the excess consumption of white bread, polished rice and other purified products, is that they leave an acid-ash. But for that matter, so do all grains, whole or refined. The diet should have a preponderance of the alkali-ash foods—fruits, nuts, milk and vegetables. (We have an article on Balanced Diet, which goes into other phases of the diet. You may have this by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and two cents in coin to me, care of this paper.)

I think that, undoubtedly it is better for children to have the whole grain breads and cereals, for they need so much energy or fuel food that it is wise to have this principle of their diet also contain the vitamins and mineral elements which they also need in great amounts.

Many people who suffer from ordinary constipation should also have the whole grain breads and cereals.

But those of you who have the idea that refined products are poisonous in themselves, as my friend had, should revise it.

While we're talking about this acid-ash phase, I think I'll bring in that many would be benefited if they took potatoes instead of bread with their meals, for potatoes leave an alkaline residue. Especially those who are suffering from a tendency to acidosis, high blood pressure, the gouty, the rheumatic, and the nephritic.

Gray Beards.

W. wants to know why it is that as a rule the beards of men do not turn gray until some time after the scalp hair does?

It is possible that it is because the face is better supplied with blood vessels than the scalp. W. Then you want to remember that the beard is 16 or so years younger than the scalp hair. I don't know whether this has anything to do with it or not. Probably the first reason is the real reason.

One of the ways to keep the hair in good condition is to brush the scalp every day—once

Spanish Stew — The Spanish stew is a one-dish dinner that can be served from the casserole very effectively.

Cut bottom round of beef in uniform pieces. Brown them in one tablespoonful of drippings, in the bottom of the stewing kettle. Cover with water and boil gently for one hour. Add a bunch of celery cut in two-inch lengths, onions, two to a person, a tablespoonful of minced parsley, one chopped green pepper, and cook for half an hour. Add potatoes cut in quarters and one teaspoonful of salt and cook half an hour longer.

Blend two teaspoonfuls of flour with a cup of stewed tomatoes and, after removing the meat and vegetables, and placing them in the casserole, add the thickened tomatoes to the liquid remaining in the kettle and cook until thick.

Care must be taken not to add too much water to this stew, but also it must not be allowed to boil dry. There should not be more than a cup of liquid remaining when the tomato is added.

Peas, French Style—One pint fresh green peas, two tablespoonfuls butter, one herb bouquet, one onion, one teaspoon powdered sugar, one-half cup water, one lettuce heart, salt, pepper to taste. Shell peas and wash and drain them. Put into saucepan with one tablespoon butter, add herb bouquet, the onion whole and the lettuce heart and cover with cold water, and let them simmer slowly for about 20 minutes, or until tender. Drain off water, remove onion and herb bouquet, lay the lettuce head on a dish, and add another tablespoonful of butter to the peas. Let them cook for five minutes longer. Pour the peas over the lettuce heart, send to table hot.

THE MAN WHO WASN'T FOOLED BY LITTLE MOTHER

Mrs. Nighthawk's eyes glistened like diamonds in the gathering dusk. Mr. Nighthawk looked worried. Baby Nighthawk paid little attention. In fact it is doubtful if he heard his mother's question. He was watching the fireflies lighting up the meadows.

A week won't do—for five minutes or so. We have an article which goes into the subject more in detail. Send for it. (See directions in the first part of this article.)

MRS. G. — No, a 100-calorie portion of oil is no more fattening than a 100-calorie portion of lettuce. A calorie is a calorie, no matter in what food it hides itself. However, 100 C. of oil is represented by but one-half ounce (one moderate tablespoonful), and 100 C. of lettuce means about 20 ounces. You see, the weight of lettuce is mostly water. Good water; fine water. But water is not fattening.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, April 19. — Senator Charles S. Deneen has had a turbulent career. He couldn't help it—in Chicago politics.

Other senators thought he was remarkably cool about it, when some of his party rivals partly blew his house down back home recently. It was just an ordinary campaign incident to Deneen.

Folks speak of this year's primary warfare in Cook county as if it were something unprecedented—things have been fully as lively there, or livelier, since long before Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked the lantern over.

The style in bombs has changed—that's all. The best they had in the old days was plain dynamite. Now they've got TNT and other modern refinements.

One night I had occasion, in a reportorial capacity, to make the rounds of a number of "halls" with him, for a series of political speeches he was scheduled to deliver.

It was no more peaceful an office in those times than Crowe's found it, nearly a third of a century later.

The Deneen group claimed to be the reform wing of the Republican party. The opposition element—the Billy Lorimer gang—called the reform outfit "the uplift"—sarcastically, of course.

Although Deneen reigned in the criminal court building, he did not have everything all his own way by any means.

One night I had occasion, in a reportorial capacity, to make the rounds of a number of "halls" with him, for a series of political speeches he was scheduled to deliver.

It was before the age of automobiles—except as curiosities—so we traveled in an old-fashioned horse-drawn hack, and an escort of a dozen mounted policemen for this chariot, and its precious contents, wasn't considered one bit of an unnecessary precaution.

The cops were dependable enough, because the mayor who furnished them happened to be a Democrat—Carter Harrison junior. And consequently a neutral, as between the belligerent Republican groups, the Deneen-ites and the Lorimer crowd. Incidentally, there was a row in the Democratic ranks, too, but that was a different thing.

Deneen always was a pugacious individual and he looks it.

He's changed mighty little since those prehistoric days in the Cook county criminal court. After a lapse of 28 years I recognized him the minute I set eyes on him in the senate chamber.

He's a chunky man, but very tall, with a snub nose and a pair of eyes which show the whites all round—exaggerated, moreover, by the large-lensed glasses he wears.

He hasn't done much talking in the senate. He has been Illinois' lone representative in the upper house of congress for a couple of years, and I suppose double-duty keeps him too busy for any oratory worth mentioning.

However, he's a capable speaker or when unnecessary arises—forcible and convincing—not a super-spell-binder but no mere wind-jammer, either.

Thirty years ago in Chicago, Deneen was estimated as a youngster who might easily land in the White House.

He hasn't lived up to this promise.

He has grown up into a hard-working, every-day politician of more than average ability, but not a world-beater.

"Inspiration" was almost within his grasp rather early in his public life. Somehow he missed it. It isn't apt to flit his way again, and maybe he wouldn't know it by sight now, if it did.

LOYALTY

There is a question that has always troubled young men and women, and I suppose always will. That is, is it disloyal to a fiancé to "go" with others when the engaged couple do not live in the same town. Not only may it be disloyal to the absent lover, but there is the question of unfairness to the other friends, as, even if they know of the engagement, they may think it will not hold and that they may have a chance. I knew a lovely girl once who was engaged to a man who lived miles away. She was very popular. She never told of her engagement, and when questioned as to why she did not she said: "Well, I always wear my ring. They should know by that."

They did not, however, and more than one enamored young man felt he had been unfairly treated when he proposed to the girl, only to be told that she was engaged to another.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a man, 30. I am going with a very attractive young girl. This girl is engaged to a young

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GRACE AND GLORY—Wisdom shall give to thine head an ornament of grace: a crown of glory shall she deliver to thee. Prov. 4:9.

OVERCOMING FARM DIFFICULTIES

People living in cities and towns sometimes think the farmers of the country are not fully up to date folks. But these farmers, besides being well up with the modern times, have always shown a certain indomitable spirit that everyone should admire.

Very frequently it happens that the farmers lost their crops. But after that distressing experience, which would take the courage all out of most town dwellers, they do not usually quit discouraged. At the poet, Browning put it, in regard to a different kind of experience, "they are baffled to fight better. The experience of getting licked, simply induces them to pick themselves up and keep on struggling again.

Every time one of these farmers puts a crop into the soil, he knows it is a gamble whether he gets anything for his effort or not. He may work hard for weeks and weeks, and then see droughts or storms or insect pests come and play the mischief with his growing grain and plants, all his season's labor counting for nothing. It takes real manhood to stand up under such experiences.

Of course there are some farmers who do give up after a series of misfortunes, and some are forced into bankruptcy by hard luck. But the greater part of them keep digging at the same old game, learning something each year out of the failures, doing a little better next time, and gradually getting a mastery of their situation.

GOOD STUDENTS REWARDED

College and high school students, who are not athletic, often complain that the athletes get most of the social recognition. Such ones can be consoled by the recent statement of the head of the bureau of employment of New York university, who remarks there are not many college men idle. Also he notes that the demand for the best students is very large. Also no doubt the good students in the high schools are also more in demand than those who are not so good.

Those who have taken high marks in their studies show that they have brains, industry, and the ability to absorb ideas. The business world here in Ohio is looking for such students.

ROADS TO FAME

One of America's most famous men, Chauncey Depew, attained that fame to a large extent by his gifts as an after dinner speaker. Although he had a career of great achievement in the business world, yet the after dinner speechmaking probably did the most to spread his fame. Somehow those graceful and witty words of his found their way into every home.

There are multitudes of after dinner speakers in this country, and many more who think they are, but really aren't. They might well take Mr. Depew as a model.

Mr. Depew made free use of humor. When you get people to laughing at the incongruities of life, you send away the glooms that inhabit their natures, and they are ready to receive information or to be moved by inspiring talk. A good after dinner speaker first amuses, then he informs, and then he inspires. Mr. Depew did all three things.

THRILLS

Don't condemn young folks of today for wanting thrills. What we need most to do is to lead them into wanting the right sort of thrills. Can't expect youth not to have pep, to want to go and do and see. But here are thrills in work—interesting, snappy work. There are thrills in some of the greatest books ever written. There are thrills in the best music. It is not wrong to look for and to find thrills. There are plenty in life. We do not have to look for them in the gutter.

IDEAS FOR THE MOVIES

Some of the motion picture producers find business bad. Bermann, German novelist who helped prepare one of the most successful screen productions gives the reason. He says the industry is hard hit because of lack of ideas. People are tired going to the same kind of shows, knowing in advance just how everything is going to turn out. They are tired of seeing the same stars exploited, regardless of how good or bad the picture is. The big owners must find new and better directors. The directors must find new and better talent. The people demand ideas. The motion pictures need ideas.

DEBATING

The world would be a dull place without some good debating, without some controversial matter. Along comes the British hand of the law and says that in England "controversial matter" must not be broadcast. That doesn't sound like England, which permits street corner speakers to lambast the government and even talk about the king. England should show no reversal of form on the radio. We don't want censorship of speeches over the radio any more than we want censorship anywhere. Let the people hear. Trust them to make up their minds.

STARTING

The hardest thing is not work. The hardest thing is STARTING work. In the time we fiddle around before getting under way we might have the most difficult job half done. Things are rarely as hard to do as we think they are going to be. We suffer most in anticipation. It's really fear that keeps us from starting. The water's fine when we get in. The least pain comes when we plunge. The wind is the coldest when we dawdle along the bank.

The Diary of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, April 19.—Broadway is never without its Big Spender. The gentleman who fills the role, currently, is Frederick Perry, visiting owner of American-patronized resorts in Cuba.

Like the famous Diamond Jim Brady, he thinks it's lots of fun being a sucker if you can afford it. The way he is flinging money around is the talk of Times Square. Leaving Texas Guinan's club the other morning, he distributed $500 bills to a solo singer, the orchestra leader and the headwaiter, and specie of other eye-popping denominations to lesser owners of itching palms. Deems Taylor, composer of the most successful American opera, "The King's Henchman," is in Paris, composing another, but he isn't living off of the royalties of his music. A hundred or two dollars each the time the Metropolitan produces "The King's Henchman," which is infrequently is all that he receives for adding an American to the list of enduring operatic composers, although every performance of the piece is crowded.

On the other hand, Billy Rose, who isn't 30 yet, has made as much as $75,000 a year from his songs, which include "Barney Google," "Don't Bring Lulu," "You've Gotta See Mamma Every Night Or You Can't See Mamma at All," and a score of others. He started writing them while private secretary to Bernard Baruch, the financier. Now he's a financier himself.

The buds are bursting on trees in 133th street, between 7th and 8th avenues, where there is more overhanging foliage than in any other Manhattan block. The conventions regulating residence in this block are very strict. Children are not permitted to be noisy. Newspaper-hawkers, peddlers, solicitors and such are barred. Persons are not allowed to move in the daytime. Deliveries must be made by rear alleys. Dwellers must not lean out of their windows. Music and loud talking are banned after midnight. Only doctors or lawyers may have designations on their houses, and other signs and stores and shops are prohibited. This block is better known as Striver's Row ("You have to strive to stay there.") It is the Park avenue of Harlem's negro aristocracy.

MAKING FOLKS THINK THEY'RE HAPPY

A hotel man, who conducted a small mountain inn for summer tourists, found that no investment was so beneficial to his trade as having a good set of scales on the veranda. Many hotels had scales that required a nickel in the slot. At this place weighing was free. The idea was that a person on a vacation is almost certain to weigh himself of there is a set of scales conveniently near. Moreover, a person undergoing a change of scene, and not at his usual work, is likely to gain in weight. Or if he is too heavy, he is likely to exercise and lose weight. In either event, he is pleased at what the scales show, and will have a disposition to attribute his improvement to the excellence of the place where he is staying. And if his hotel bill at the end of the week seems high, he, nevertheless, is reconciled to it and says nothing.

Many suburban allotments have massive brick gateposts, with stone caps, at the entrance, even though there are no sewers or sidewalks, and usually the comparatively slight cost of these posts is a time investment for the man with lots to sell. They give a touch of grandeur, which the prospective buyer subconsciously associates with the entire layout.

The story is told of a western railroad general manager who dropped in at one of the eating houses provided for the construction gangs on his road, and noticed that the men were served with brown sugar. He asked the man in charge of the eating place why they didn't have ordinary granulated sugar.

"Because this is cheaper," was the reply.

"Let's see if it is," suggested the general manager. He took a teaspoon and picked up all the brown sugar the spoon would hold. It made a little mound of sugar. Then he tried the same thing with granulated sugar, and the spoon would not hold half as much.

"You see," pointed out the general manager, "if every man uses an average of two spoonfuls in his coffee, granulated sugar is cheaper."

JUNIOR!

When Junior had finished his first music lesson his teacher told him, as she stopped the metronome which had been indicating tempos on top of the piano: "Now, my boy, you must practice when you get home."

"And teacher," asked the boy, "shall I tell Father we must have a windshield cleaner for the piano?"

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

THE FEMINIZED BOB

The feminized mode of coiffure is delightful for the very young, charming for the not so young, and gracious in the extreme for the matron who is not young at all.

For the very young it can be achieved by soft waves, distractingly impudent tight curls, and even very soft feminine bangs on the forehead, arranged, if you please, with the skill and art of a master! For the matron of an uncertain age, chignon and transformation are very much in vogue.

One very lovely headdress is exceptionally attractive for the slender, youthful type of girl. The hair is parted in the center, worn with bangs very slightly curving on the forehead, and has a very soft wave. The ends of the sides, which are brought forward on the cheek, have blunt square ends. Pointed ends are slowly going out. General usage has killed them for the smart woman.

A second arrangement, which is particularly good for wear with evening clothes, is very much the same, except the bangs are not in evidence, and a medium sized chignon appears at the back.

A third feminine headdress is reminiscent of a statue of Pallas Athene I viewed recently in Paris. Tiny tight, round curls completely cover the back of the head. The sides are curled over—not under, which is demode—and are arranged with exact precision.

In the coiffure the pointed back appears. Incidentally it is a coiffure especially adapted to the smart woman with a rather long, slender neck.

Some Parisian masters choose to interpret the style with the loose clustered masses of ringlets, which you may perhaps have seen in pictures of the Empress Josephine. The fashion is distinctly Empire—and very feminine—but your hair must be almost shoulder length to achieve it.

An interesting, although somewhat radical hair arrangement, is already much seen in Paris, and is beginning to take hold in New York and other Cosmopolitan centers. It resembles nothing so much as a cock's comb of massed curls down the center of the head from front to back.

I can hardly recommend this style for general use, but perhaps as an occasional evening coiffure it may be very effective.

Virtually anything soft, loose and feminine is bound to be correct. The curls of a forgotten era, whether they be the small shell curls of Greek statuary, the loosely clasped ringlets of the pre-Revolutionary era in France—or the precise arrangement of the Empire period, are all good—all very much in style and all easily adaptable to the average woman. Experiment a little and remember when you achieve femininity you have struck a popular fashion note of today's mode!

WHITE BREAD VS. GRAHAM BREAD

I was having lunch with a friend I hadn't met for years. As I took a roll made of white flour, she burst out with "Why, Doctor, how can you eat any thing made of white flour? Don't you, of all people, know that white flour, polished rice, etc., are poisonous?"

As her notion is fairly widespread, I want to point out the fallacy of the idea. White bread, polished rice, white sugar, and other highly refined products, are not poisonous. It is true that they have been largely demineralized and, de-vitaminized, but they are still good food foods, and will not poison in the slightest degree, unless they are taken in such excess that not enough other foods, which would supply their deficiencies, could be taken. However, if liberal amounts of fruits and vegetables and the proper amounts of milk, meat and eggs are taken, there is no reason why those who like white bread and polished rice should not take them, if they want them.

Another count against the excess consumption of white bread, polished rice and other purified products, is that they leave an acid-ash. But for that matter, so do all grains, whole or refined. The diet should have a preponderance of the alkali-ash foods—fruits, nuts, milk and vegetables. (We have an article on Balanced Diet, which goes into other phases of the diet. You may have this by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and two cents in.

W. wants to know why it is that as a rule the beards of men do not turn gray until some time after the scalp hair does?

It is possible that it is because the face is better supplied with blood vessels than the scalp. W. Then you want to remember that the beard is 16 or 20 years younger than the scalp hair. I don't know whether this has anything to do with it or not. Probably the first reason is the real reason.

One of the ways to keep the hair in good condition is to brush the scalp every day—once

Today's Recipes

Spanish Stew—The Spanish stew is a one-dish dinner that can be served from the casserole very effectively.

Cut bottom round of beef in uniform pieces. Brown them in one tablespoonful of drippings, in the bottom of the stewing kettle. Cover with water and boil gently for one hour. Add a bunch of celery cut in two-inch lengths, onions, two to a person, a tablespoonful of minced parsley, one chopped green pepper, and cook for half an hour. Add potatoes cut in quarters and one teaspoonful of salt and cook half an hour longer.

Blend two teaspoonfuls of flour with a cup of stewed tomatoes and, after removing the meat and vegetables, and placing them in the casserole, add the thickened tomatoes to the liquid remaining in the kettle and cook until thick.

Care must be taken not to add too much water to this stew, but also it must not be allowed to boil dry. There should not be more than a cup of liquid remaining when the tomato is added.

Peas, French Style—One pint fresh green peas, two tablespoons butter, one herb bouquet, one onion, one teaspoon powdered sugar, one-half cup water, one lettuce heart, salt, pepper to taste. Shell peas and wash and drain them. Put into saucepan with one tablespoon butter, add herb bouquet, the onion whole and the lettuce heart and cover with cold water, and let them simmer slowly for about 20 minutes, or until tender. Drain off water, remove onion and herb bouquet, lay the lettuce head on a dish, and add another tablespoonful of butter to the peas. Let them cook for five minutes longer. Pour the peas over the lettuce heart, send to table hot.

MRS. G.—No, a 100-calorie portion of oil is no more fattening than a 100-calorie portion of lettuce. A calorie is a calorie, no matter in what food it hides itself. However, 100 C. of oil is represented by but one-half ounce (one moderate tablespoonful), and 100 C. of lettuce means about 20 ounces. You see, the weight of lettuce is mostly water. Good water; fine water. But water is not fattening.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Senator Charles S. Deneen has had a turbulent career. He could help it—in Chicago politics.

Other senators thought he was remarkably cool about it, when one of his party rivals partly blew his house down back home recently. It was just an ordinary campaign incident—to Deneen.

Folks speak of this year's primary warfare in Cook county as if it were something unprecedented—things have been fully as lively there, or livelier, since long before Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked the lantern over.

The style in bombs has changed—that's all. The best they had in the old days was plain dynamite. Now they've got TNT and other modern refinements.

The first time I met Deneen was about 1900. He was state's attorney then—county prosecutor—the same job Bob Crowe put up such a fight the other day, to hang onto.

It was no more peaceful an office in those times than Crowe's found it, nearly a third of a century later.

The Deneen group claimed to be the reform wing of the Republican party. The opposition element—the Billy Lorimer gang—called the reform outfit "the uplift"—sarcastically, of course.

Although Deneen reigned in the criminal court building, he did not have everything all his own way, by any means.

One night I had occasion, in a reportorial capacity, to make the rounds of a number of "halls" with him, for a series of political speeches he was scheduled to deliver.

It was before the age of automobiles—except as curiosities—so we traveled in an old-fashioned horse-drawn hack, and an escort of a dozen mounted policemen for this chariot, and its precious contents, wasn't considered one bit of an unnecessary precaution.

The cops were dependable enough, because the mayor who furnished them happened to be a Democrat—Carter Harrison junior. And consequently a neutral, as between the belligerent Republican groups, the Deneenites and the Lorimer crowd. Incidentally, there was a row in the Democratic ranks, too, but that was a different thing.

Deneen always was a pugnacious individual and he looks it. He's changed mighty little since those prehistoric days in the Cook county criminal court. After a lapse of 28 years I recognized him the minute I set eyes on him in the senate chamber.

He's a chunky man, but very tall, with a snub nose and a pair of eyes which show the whites all 'round—exaggerated, moreover, by the large-lensed glasses he wears.

He hasn't done much talking in the senate. He has been Illinois' lone representative in the upper house of congress for a couple of years, and I suppose double-duty keeps him too busy for any oratory worth mentioning.

However, he's a capable speaker when occasion arises—forcible and convincing—not a super-spell-binder but no mere wind-jammer, either.

Thirty years ago in Chicago, Deneen was estimated as a youngster who might easily land in the White House.

He hasn't lived up to this promise.

He has grown up into a hard-working, every-day politician of more than average ability, but not a world-beater.

"Inspiration" was almost with him in his grasp rather early in his public life. Somehow he missed it. It isn't apt to flit his way again, and maybe he wouldn't know it by sight now, if it did.

Living and Loving

LOYALTY

There is a question that has always troubled young men and women, and I suppose always will. That is, is it disloyal to a fiancé to "go" with others when the engaged couple do not live in the same town? Not only may it be disloyal to the absent lover, but there is the question of unfairness to the other friends as well.

They may think it will not hold and that they may have a chance. I knew a lovely girl once who was engaged to a man who lived miles away. She was very popular. She never told of her engagement, and when questioned as to why she did not she said: "Well, I always wear my ring. They should know by that."

They did not, however, and more than one enamored young man felt he had been unfairly treated when he proposed to the girl, only to be told that she was engaged to another.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a man, 30. I am going with a very attractive young girl. This girl is engaged to a young

"I think you would be perfectly justified in asking her that question, Wondering. Tell her you like her, but don't want to play second fiddle. If she is engaged to him you will have to step aside. If not and you like her, you have a perfect right to try to get her to like you. May the best man win."

RESERVES OPEN SEASON SUNDAY WITH WILMINGTON Nighthawks

Xenia Reserves and the Wilmington Nighthawks will settle a little argument of superiority in a game that will formally open the 1928 local baseball season Sunday afternoon on the Washington Park diamond.

The contest will be called at 2 o'clock.

Either Leonard Schliff, Dayton, or McMichael, Bellbrook, will get the call to pitch for the Reserves, a matter which is still undecided. Each hurler pitched three innings in a practice game with the Springfield Millard Club last Sunday, and of the two, Schliff exhibited somewhat the better form.

Schliff pitched hitless ball in the three frames he worked and was not scored upon. For that matter, McMichael also declined to yield a run in three innings, although he was touched for two hits.

Perhaps Carey, perhaps Coombs,

will be the starting twirler for the Quaker nine.

Reserves will probably line up with either George Harr or Shane behind the plate Barlow on first; Captain "Jug" Conley on second; Eckert at short; Cyphers at third; Coy in right field; Burnhaugh in center field and maybe Johnson in left field. A number of other utility players will get into the pastime.

BISHOP REESE CONFIRMS LARGE CLASS AT CHRIST CHURCH HERE

In a service marked by simplicity and impressiveness, a large class of candidates was confirmed at Christ Episcopal Church, Wednesday evening, by the Rt. Rev. T. I. Reese, bishop of the diocese of southern Ohio. A large congregation of church members and friends witnessed the ceremony. Bishop Reese brought out the point that Christianity did not create the idea of immortality, but that it was an ancient belief, held by practically all races since the beginning of human history. "Through Christianity, however, we learn that the power of death is broken, that there is a life in us that brings us straight through death into the presence of God," the bishop said.

"The greatest power in the world," Bishop Reese later added, "is the power of the living Christ. Don't tell me human nature cannot be changed. I have seen men and women of the lowest types transformed into new beings. In the slums of New York, Edinburgh and London, where I did social work for three years before entering the ministry, I have seen human nature changed by love. That is what I call the miracle of the resurrection life."

The altar and the chancel were decorated with flowers and palms for the service. The choir sang, "There is a Green Hill Far Away," as a special number and "Just As I Am" was sung by the choir and congregation while the confirmation candidates went forward to the altar rail.

me to take it. I got one bottle and that helped me so much that I took one after another until I had taken nine in all. But now I just get a bottle when I begin to feel badly, for I must say the medicine sure helped me and I am able to work every day. I will answer any questions anyone asks me, for I think your medicines are fine."—Mrs. R. C. Hazlett, Station G, R. No. 3, Columbus, Ohio.

Recommend the Compound
Los Angeles, Cal.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was working in a factory and I was always on my feet, being the supervisor there. This caused my health to fail and I really was run-down very badly as I had no appetite at all and could not eat enough. I am taking the Vegetable Compound and also the Pills for Constipation. I have recommended them for several years and am safe in saying that probably 25 women have been helped through taking my advice. I am glad for you to use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. E. A. Franckey, 1261 Cypress Avenue, Los Angeles, California.

In all 6-cylinder history there has never been such spectacular acceptance of any car as that which everywhere greets the new Essex Super-Six. It is out-selling all other "Sixes", and its own previous records, by such outstanding margins as to leave no doubt of its leadership.

In some places its sales excel its former mark by 100%, 200% and 300%. In Detroit, for instance, where automobile values are understood better than anywhere in the world, Essex sales have been greater than the next three "Sixes" combined.

Such success can only reflect an accurate and unmistakable public appreciation that Essex is the World's Greatest Value—Altogether or Part by Part—Please Compare.

In a service marked by simplicity and impressiveness, a large class of candidates was confirmed at Christ Episcopal Church, Wednesday evening, by the Rt. Rev. T. I. Besides confirming those who thus came forward to ratify their vows of church membership and baptism, Bishop Reese preached the sermon, taking for his topic, "The Resurrection Life."

"If the Risen Christ could come here tonight in person," the Bishop said in part, "He would ask two questions: First, are you living the resurrection life here and now? Second, do you wish to enter into the resurrection life?"

WORKING WOMEN SELDOM LOSE A DAY'S PAY NOW

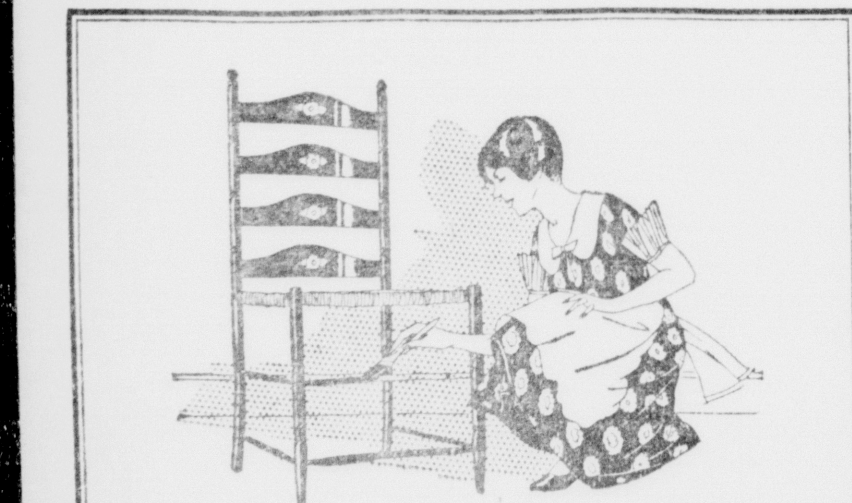

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MRS. R. C. HAZLETT
Station G, R. No. 3, Columbus, Ohio
Eastwood, Ohio.—"I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a weak, nervous, run-down condition, seven years ago, after my baby was born. Some of the girls in the factory where I worked when I was able, advised me to take it. I got one bottle and that helped me so much that I took nine in all. But now I just get a bottle when I begin to feel badly. I must say the medicine sure helped me and I am able to work every day. I will answer any questions anyone asks me, for I think your medicines are fine."—Mrs. R. C. HAZLETT, Station G, R. No. 3, Columbus, Ohio.

Recommends the Compound
Los Angeles, Cal.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was working in a factory and I was always on my feet, being the supervisor there. This caused my health to fail and I really was run-down very badly as I had no appetite at all and could not eat enough. I am taking the Vegetable Compound and also the Pills for Constipation. I have recommended them for several years and am safe in saying that probably 25 women have been helped through taking my advice. I am glad for you to use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. E. A. FRANKLEY, 1261 Cypress Avenue, Los Angeles, California.

LOSS IS LUCKY

Donald W. Herlihy

SEATTLE, Wash., April 19.—Donald W. Herlihy, penniless soldier of fortune, lost his passport in Mexico and as a result literally has found a $200,000 heritage in Seattle.

Herlihy was the only heir of his grandmother, Mrs. Abigail Higgins, who died at the age of 109 in Bar Harbor, Me., three years ago.

At the time of her death, he couldn't be found. Seventeen years before he had left Tufts college as a freshman. He had journeyed around most of the world, and had worked as a sailor, newspaper man, graduate nurse, free lancer and a soldier. But he had never written home.

In Mexico, several months ago, he decided to return to the United States. He couldn't find his passport, but was admitted over the border on probation.

To satisfy the demands of the government, he wrote to the city clerk of Bar Harbor for his birth certificate.

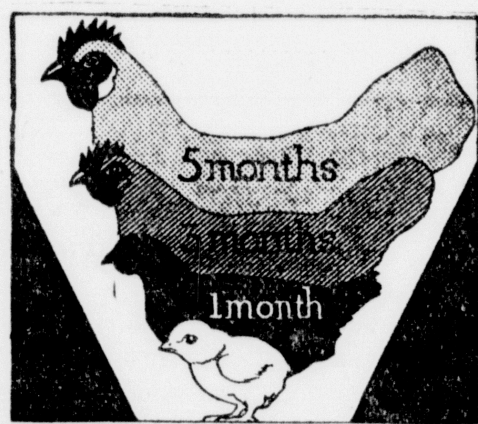

Meanwhile, he moved on to Seattle. He was virtually "down and out." Another "down-easter" found him, glad to get a night's lodging on the floor of a refuge for the penniless. He got Herlihy a job as a painter with a circus in winter quarters.

Then, just the other day, Herlihy got the birth certificate and a notice that for three years he had been sought as the sole heir to the Higgins fortune, mostly a tract of virgin spruce and pine between Bar Harbor and Bangor, Me.

It's amazing the way all-mash-fed chicks grow

THE way baby chicks thrive and grow when fed on UBICO ALL-MASH Starting and Growing Ration is little short of miraculous. No weak, droopy, listless chicks with overgrown wing and tail feathers—or with no feathers at all—when UBICO ALL-MASH is fed regularly.

This ration will promote a rapid, well-balanced growth of body and feathers. It will make firm flesh and strong bone—no weak legs with UBICO-fed chicks. That's because it is a complete ration and every ingredient is chosen with the greatest care and has been thoroughly tested. Sound, wholesome grains supplemented with choice meat scraps, dried buttermilk, cod-liver oil, bone meal, salt and charcoal make UBICO ALL-MASH Starting and Growing Ration practically perfect.

The advantages of all-mash feeding are decidedly worth while. Self-feeders prevent the usual crowding that accompanies litter-feeding. The ration is always clean. By no chance can the chicks pick up mouldy, decayed grains that may carry disease and parasites. Again, all-mash feeding is convenient. It is a time and labor saver. It does away with all guesswork, as UBICO ALL-MASH Starting and Growing Ration provides all the nutrients needed by the growing pullets and cockerels.

Powder Means Much To Me

By Edna Wallace Hopper

The average woman considers the actress hopelessly ahead of her in the art of enhancing natural beauty.

The reason for this advantage is that the actress makes a business of attracting and she must "know how." It is her bread and butter.

In the matter of powder, for instance, my forty-odd years on the stage have made me almost unbelievably exacting. I never considered the cost of my powder, so long as it pleased me.

After years of as the actress today found in France the powder that now adds the last touch to my careful toilette. It satisfies me because it has the one quality I have found in no other powder. That is, it blends so smoothly with the texture of my skin that my face never looks "made up" when I am offstage.

Because it lends such natural bloom I call it my Youth Powder. In the immense quantities now produced I am able to offer it to women at a low price.

If your skin requires a clinging powder I advise using my Youth Powder in the Heavy Type. It also can be had in the Light Type. Both have the same delicate elusive fragrance.

Radio Revue

BY C. KAY
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The Gazette

NEW YORK, April 19.—"What," I asked a radio engineer, "are Piezo crystals, and how on earth did they get such a name?" The query brought out an interesting story.

Piezo is derived from the Greek word, piezein, meaning "to squeeze," and refers to the ability of certain crystals to develop electric polarization when subjected to pressure. These crystals also have a reverse property, and when electrical charges are applied to them at certain points, they dilate and produce stress. Quartz is generally used because its natural vibrations are constant, and because it is not affected greatly by temperature changes. There also is piezo action in Rochelle salts, cane sugar, camphor, boracite and silicate of zinc.

In preparation, the quartz is ground to a thin wafer, and as soon as it becomes active it becomes a sort of regulator of traffic, preventing a transmitter from sliding off its assigned wave length. To understand this, it is necessary to know that when the ordinary broadcasting station goes on the air a carrier wave and two sidebands are sent out from the aerial wires. In the broadcasting of a concert, for instance, 60 per cent of the total power is estimated to be in the carrier wave, although it does not convey any music. The side bands do this. However, in developing the trans-ocean telephone circuit, engineers eliminated the carrier and one side band, conserving both electrical energy and etherial space. The remaining wave is useless unless the severed parts, i. e., the carrier wave and the other side band, were grafted back at the receiving end. This is the purpose of the heterodyne oscillator, an instrument which combines the received current with a locally generated alternating current, forming a receiving process called "beat" reception. The frequency applied by the oscillator interacts with the incoming wave band, and produces the original audio frequencies spoken across the Atlantic. If the wave strays even slightly off the exact channel, it is difficult to tune at the receiver, and to prevent this, engineers applied the piezo electric effect. The same principle is applied to broadcasting stations so they won't mix waves. This piezo effect was discovered by Mme. Currie and her late husband long before wireless was developed.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH WARNING AGAINST DOG BITES

COLUMBUS, O., April 19.—With the advent of warm weather warnings to guard against rabies or "mad dog bites" are being issued to the various county health departments throughout the state. Dr. C. P. Robbins of the state health department here told International News Service.

There were eleven deaths in 1927 due to rabies, and six fatalities in 1928, the doctor declared.

"A case of rabies always results in the death of the person stricken," the doctor said. He added, however, that less than twenty per cent of dog bites cause rabies.

Persons stricken with the dread disease usually die about the fifth or seventh day, Robbins said. The disease sometimes does not make itself felt, the doctor said, for a period of from ten days to fourteen months, after the person is bitten by a mad dog.

Any warm blooded animal is susceptible to rabies. A person suffering from rabies is usually violent on the death bed, the doctor said. Though the suffering insistently cry for water, the doctor stated, they are thrown into convulsions by the contracting of the neck muscles when they attempt to drink or swallow.

During the warm weather a dog is inclined to be irritable and irascible, the state health official said. This should not be mistaken for a sign of rabies, he continued. Where a dog is closely watched and cared for there is very little chance for rabies to develop the doctor said.

Tramp dogs cause the most trouble to health officials, he emphasized. Dogs are affected with two kinds of rabies, classified as "dumb" and "violent." They are just as the name signifies. The doctor said he has known of dogs that were stricken with violent rabies to run incredible distances. A dog stricken with dumb rabies causes very little trouble.

Officials at the state health department have not succeeded in finding the immediate cause of rabies, Robbins said, but they have found that if dogs that are mad have a growth in their brain which doctors term as "gray matter." These bodies have defied the analysis of the most learned doctors, Robbins declared.

There is no cure for rabies. The only thing to do is to guard against them by injection of a disinfectant after a person is bitten by a mad dog, the doctor said. For this reason, authorities put a tag up for observation after a rabid bite a person. If the dog shows signs of rabies within ten days, the injection is at once given to the person. If otherwise and the dog is found to be in normal condition there is not need for the disinfectant, the doctor concluded.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH WARNING AGAINST DOG BITES

COLUMBUS, O., April 19.—With the advent of warm weather warnings to guard against rabies or "mad dog bites" are being issued to the various county health departments throughout the state. Dr. C. P. Robbins of the state health department here told International News Service.

There were eleven deaths in 1927 due to rabies, and six fatalities in 1928, the doctor declared.

"A case of rabies always results in the death of the person stricken," the doctor said. He added, however, that less than twenty per cent of dog bites cause rabies. Persons stricken with the dread disease usually die about the fifth or seventh day, Robbins said. The disease sometimes does not make itself felt, the doctor said, for a period of from ten days to fourteen months, after the person is bitten by a mad dog.

Any warm blooded animal is susceptible to rabies. A person suffering from rabies is usually violent on the death bed, the doctor said. Though the suffering insistently cry for water, the doctor stated, they are thrown into convulsions by the contracting of the neck muscles when they attempt to drink or swallow.

During the warm weather a dog is inclined to be irritable and vicious, the state health official said. This should not be mistaken for a sign of rabies, he continued. Where a dog is closely watched and cared for there is very little chance for rabies to develop the doctor said.

Tramp dogs cause the most trouble to health officials, he emphasized. Dogs are affected with two kinds of rabies, classified as "dumb" and "violent." They are just as the name signifies. The doctor said he has known of dogs that were stricken with violent rabies to run incredible distances. A dog stricken with dumb rabies causes very little trouble.

Officials of the state health department have not succeeded in finding the immediate cause of rabies, Robbins said, but they have found that all dogs that go mad have a growth on their brain which doctors term as "brain nodules." These nodules have defied the analysis of the most learned doctors, Robbins declared.

There is no cure for rabies. The only thing to do against them is to inject a disinfectant after a person is bitten by a mad dog, the doctor said. For this reason authorities run a dog up for observation after a canine bite a person. If the dog shows signs of rabies, within ten days the "inoculation" is at once given to the person. If otherwise and the dog is found to be in normal condition there is not need for the disinfectant, the doctor concluded.

BLACK EYES EXCHANGED BY JAIL • GUARD AND STUBBORN PRISONER

COLUMBUS, O., April 19.—Twin black eyes were worn today by a guard and a prisoner at the city jail here as the result of a fracas late yesterday.

The prisoner, John Wilson, 29, of New Philadelphia, was one of five young men arrested by a patrolman and a detective who have been working on a garage hold-up here several weeks ago and other robberies.

The five were captured in an automobile which police say contained two automatic pistols, stolen from the National Guard Armory here several weeks ago. Others arrested were: Leonard Sharp, 28, Tracey Schooley, 28, Thomas Smith, 27, and Louis Rose, 25, all of Columbus.

On arriving at the city jail Wilson manifested a marked disinclination to entering his cell and when W. L. Boyer, a guard, attempted to point out the futility of his attitude the prisoner fetched him a nifty punch over the eye, according to police. Boyer, without hesitating, returned the courtesy.

Before any further decorations could be exchanged other officers intervened, shoving Wilson into his cell.

ALFRED D. CRISTE PLACED ON PENSION RETIREMENT LIST

Alfred D. Criste, Cincinnati, former Xenian, storekeeper, maintenance of equipment department of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was placed on the pension roll of honor April 1, retiring on a disability claim.

His retirement ended a record of forty-four years of service for the Pennsylvania Company which he began in 1884 as a laborer in the maintenance of equipment department. He was later a mason, assistant supply clerk and supply clerk holding the last position until October 1, 1929, when he was made maintenance of equipment store keeper with headquarters at Pendleton Shops, Cincinnati.

He had occupied this position since, keeping all supplies of the maintenance of equipment department of the Cincinnati Division and its minor divisions operating out of Cincinnati. Friends and co-workers at Pendleton Shops surprised him with a farewell party, March 21, when they presented him with a Gladstone bag and a tapestry chair.

W. P. Raedel, master mechanic, called Mr. Criste to his office on business and there he found the entire office and storeroom force gathered. J. F. Furrer, foreman, car department, spoke briefly, touching on Mr. Criste's long association with the company.

Mr. Criste was born at Cambrian, Summit County, Pa., September 5, 1862, but during his early association with the railroad lived on Hill St., Xenia. He and Mrs. Criste live at 3,717 Morris Place, Cincinnati, but are now on an extended trip to California.

Fashions Change But Feet Do Not

A very witty Irishman once said, "Fashions change but feet do not." What a world of wisdom is wrapped up in these few words, and how we should all take them to heart when we set out in our quest for shoes.

We have tried to do our part by providing you with shoes made of honest leather and whose excellent workmanship insures the wearer real comfort. That isn't all, however. You must do your part and select shoes adapted to the use you are going to give them. Don't teeter around on spike heels during workaday hours. It never was comfortable, and now it isn't even fashionable.

BLACK EYES EXCHANGED BY JAIL • GUARD AND STUBBORN PRISONER

COLUMBUS, O., April 19.—Twin black eyes were worn today by a guard and a prisoner at the city jail here as the result of a fracas late yesterday.

The prisoner, John Wilson, 29, of New Philadelphia, was one of five young men arrested by a patrolman and a detective who have been working on a garage hold-up here several weeks ago and other robberies.

The five were captured in an automobile which police say contained two automatic pistols, stolen from the National Guard Armory here several weeks ago. Others arrested were: Leonard Sharp, 28, Tracey Schooley, 28, Thomas Smith, 27, and Louis Rose, 25, all of Columbus.

On arriving at the city jail Wilson manifested a marked disinclination to entering his cell and when W. L. Boyer, a guard, attempted to point out the futility of his attitude the prisoner fetched him a nifty punch over the eye, according to police. Boyer, without hesitating, returned the courtesy.

Before any further decorations could be exchanged other officers intervened, shoving Wilson into his cell.

Who's Who and Timely Views

VIEWS ON LIFE EXPRESSED

By Count Hermann Keyserling

Philosopher and Lecturer

(Count Hermann Keyserling, German philosopher and writer, is connected with the School of Wisdom at Darmstadt, Germany, which he founded. He has written several books among which the
"Travel Diary of a Philosopher" and the "Book on Marriage" have attracted considerable attention all over theworld. At the present time
Count Keyserling is in the United States lecturing in all
the principal cities of the country).If one wishes to study the life of any individual, it will be found that evil acts, in a way, have brought about some good results, and that if the commissions and omissions
of the man are weighed in a balance it will be found that the scales are almost even.Daily existence is life and death combined, not only in society but in the state and in religion. In the battle something must give way
for the other to succeed, something must perish that the goal
may be reached. So it is that death is life and life death in the walk
of every man and woman every day. Great men's history, too, and even their worst deeds, stand out
as part of the great human symphony.Death, and the infliction of death, are with us every moment; which is why there is a true will for death in the world. Death is inherently a part of life, and it is just as normal to wish to die as to wish to live.Cults which would abolish death as seeking for the impossible, and even those which would dispel unhappiness as working for the unattainable because one must sometime be unhappy as well as happy so that a balance might be struck of the positive and the negative, both of which were needed to make life complete.That is why we are really enjoying the tragic aspects of life, which is essentially tragic.Just as music must be heard to be appreciated, so must life be lived to be enjoyed!Exceptional values in good

SWEETHEARTS

AUTHOR of "MY SON'S SWEETHEARTS," "CONFESSIONS OF A WIFE," ETC.

READ THIS, FIRST:

Lynda Fenton, a singularly innocent girl, is private secretary to Ralph Armitage. Her father, a drunkard, tells her that her mother
deserted them, and that all women have their price.Lynda meets Emily Andrews, who cherishes a secret fondness
for David Kenmore. Lynda's companions from childhood, Emily plots against Lynda from the very beginning. David tells Lynda he loves her, but she decides she doesn't want to be in love with any man.
David is away on a trip.Lynda's father, too, deserts her,
and Claire Stanhope comes to live
with her. Claire tells of innocent love for Fred Blake, a married man. Lynda comes home one day
to find Fred in the house, and hears Claire entreating him to stay away.June Challer, who has annexed money, invites Lynda and Claire
and Emily Andrews to a big party.
It's Lynda's first real affair, and she's enthused. Emily secretly sends David a letter, suggesting that he come home for the party,
so that Lynda may be made to feel at ease. Then she sends him
an anonymous note, saying "Ralph Armitage is rushing your girl."Ralph Armitage's father informs Lynda that Ralph has been injured.
(Now Go On With The Story)CHAPTER XXV
RALPH ARMITAGE IS A HERO
"I hope Mr. Armitage is not badly hurt," said Lynda, with a sinking feeling in her heart. She hoped she had not grown pale."No, Miss Fenton, although it is very uncomfortable, it could have been worse. He thinks he'll be able to come down to the office tomorrow. He will know after the doctor makes his visit to him this afternoon. If the doctor says he cannot come—and frankly, I think he will
—I will take you out, and any letters you think he ought to attend to tomorrow evening. You won't mind working overtime, will you,
under the circumstances?""I shall be glad to do anything to help until Mr. Armitage gets better," said Lynda, as she started out of the room.Before she had gotten into the hall, Mr. Armitage, senior, called her back."Miss Fenton, if my son has any calls on the telephone today, you
had better switch them to my wire.
I am not telling anyone in the office about his accident, as Ralph did not want any particular attention paid to it."There was some kind of thrilling case. Lynda felt in Ralph Armitage's automobile accident, and she was sure of it. It is the afternoon, when the persistent woman's voice,
which had been calling him up the day before, called him again.She gave the usual reply, however: "Mr. Armitage will not be in his office today. May I take the message?"This time, instead of ignoring her completely, the woman asked:
"Do you know whether there is any truth in the rumor that Ralph
—Mr. Armitage—has been hurt in an automobile accident?""I have heard no rumor, Madam, but I'll switch you on to his father's wire, and you may be able to get some information from him."Lynda had no idea that Ralph Armitage's office could be so still
and dull, but during the afternoon
the postman left two letters for her, which surprised her very much. She had not expected that a letter from anyone would come to her at Armitage & Son's. She has received only two or three letters
before in all her life.She looked at the envelopes curiously. One was mailed from a southern city, and contained nothing except a twenty-dollar bill. Although there was no written assurance, Lynda knew that her father would not have been able to send her this, and there was no
one else to send her money—unless he had obtained some sort of position and was doing pretty well."Poor old Dad," she said to herself, the tears dropping on the page. "After all, he is his own worst enemy."The other letter was from David, and heaved the fact that he had secured a job for her with Armitage & Son. One paragraph read:"I did not know, Lyn, what a reputation Ralph Armitage had, or
I never would have recommended
you as a stenographer in the firm.
Of course, his father is a prince,
and I am sure you would stand no nonsense in the office, even from his own son. I've never met young Ar-mitage, but I have been told he is one of the most fascinating of men, and that the tragedy surrounding his marriage has added a most romantic tinge of pity to everything he does or says, where
a woman is concerned.""Lynda, I am frankly jealous, and I wish that I could take you away
immediately from your entire environment, but here I am, bound to the elder Armitage, who has been wonderfully good to me, and I cannot go to him and tell him just what I have told you, as an excuse
for your leaving them, because it is his son of whom I am suspicious
and jealous."This letter made Lynda angry.
She felt that David should not intimate she ought to leave her job
because he had heard something

"Poor old Dad," she said to herself.

about the fascination of Ralph Ar-mitage. David should know, having grown up with her, that she could take care of herself, even in the office of "the most fascinating of men.""Why don't they leave me alone
—all of them?" she asked herself.
"Everyone seems bound to throw
me into Ralph Armitage's arms.
David intimated, before he went away, that he was the best market
I would ever know, and now David hasn't enough confidence in me to let me fight my own battles. Will men ever understand that we do not need them to regulate our morals?"All day long Lynda's thoughts were upon Ralph Armitage. She, too, had begun to have a kind of pity for him. Late in the afternoon Emily Andrews came in, all excited.
"Did you hear about Armitage?" she asked.Lynda was very much pleased that Emily did not wait for her to answer, as she did not want to tell
an untruth, and she had promised
Mr. Armitage, senior, not to say anything concerning the absence of his son.Emily, however, was so glad to tell the news, that she bubbled over with the information. Ralph had been grown up with her, and although he was a bit broken, trying not to run over a child."Yesterday, on his way to his home," said Emily, "a child ran out directly in front of Armitage's car.
It looked as though it was sure
death, but he deliberately swung
his roadster into the ditch, and almost took the count himself. Wasn't that splendid? The afternoon papers are devoting most of the first page to him. Did the 'old boss' tell you anything about it this morning? If he did, you are mighty close about it, I must say.""Mr. Armitage said that his son had had a slight accident and would not be down today, but he asked me not to say anything about it in the office. I had to keep it close after that, didn't I?""Poor old Armitage, it would have been just his luck to have killed
himself," said Emily, sympathetically. "I really feel very sorry for him at times. He isn't such a bad egg, you know. You really can't blame him for coping out as many good times as he can."

stadt, Germany, which he

eral books among which the

erable attention all over theworld. At the present time
Count Keyserling is in the United States lecturing in all
the principal cities of the country).
If one wishes to study the life of
any individual, it will be found that evil acts, in a way, have brought about some good results, and that if the commissions and omissions
of the man are weighed in a balance it will be found that the scales are almost even.
Daily existence is life and death
combined, not only in society but in the state and in religion. In the battle something must give way
for the other to succeed, something must perish that the goal
may be reached. So it is that death
is life and life death in the walk
of every man and woman every
day. Great men's history, too, and
even their worst deeds, stand out
as part of the great human symphony.

SWEETHEARTS BY IDA H. MCGILL GIBSON

READ THIS FIRST:
Lynda Fenton, a singularly innocent girl, is private secretary to Ralph Armitage. Her father, a drunkard, tells her that her mother
deserted them, and that all women have their price.
Lynda meets Emily Andrews,
who cherishes a secret fondness
for David Kenmore, Lynda's companion from childhood. Emily plots against Lynda from the very beginning. David tells Lynda he loves
her, but she decides she doesn't want to be in love with any man.
David is away on a trip.
Lynda's father, too, deserts her,
and Claire Stanhope comes to live
with her. Claire tells of innocent
love for Fred Blake, a married man. Lynda comes home one day
to find Fred in the house, and hears Claire entreating him to stay away.
June Challer, who has annexed
money, invites Lynda and Claire
and Emily Andrews to a big party.
It's Lynda's first real affair, and she's enthralled. Emily secretly sends David a letter, suggesting
that he come home for the party,
so that Lynda may be made to feel at ease. Then she sends him
an anonymous note, saying "Ralph Armitage is rushing your girl."
Ralph Armitage's father informs
Lynda that Ralph has been injured.
(Now Go On With The Story)

"Poor old Dad," she said to herself.

CHAPTER XXV
RALPH ARMITAGE IS A HERO"I hope Mr. Armitage is not badly hurt," said Lynda, with a sinking feeling in her heart. She hoped
she had not grown pale."No, Miss Fenton, although it is very uncomfortable, it could have been worse. He thinks he'll be able to come down to the office to-morrow. He will know after the doctor
makes his visit to him this afternoon. If the doctor says he cannot come—and frankly, I think he will
—I will take you out, and any letters you think he ought to attend
to, tomorrow evening. You won't mind working overtime, will you,
under the circumstances?""I shall be glad to do anything to help until Mr. Armitage gets better," said Lynda, as she started
out of the room.Before she had gotten into the hall, Mr. Armitage, senior, called her back."Miss Fenton, if my son has any
calls on the telephone today, you
had better switch them to my wireless, not telling anyone in the office about his accident, as Ralph doesn't want any particular attention paid to it."There was some kind of thrilling adventure Lynda felt in Ralph Armitage's automobile accident, and she was sure of it. It was the afternoon of the persistent woman's voice,
which had been calling him up the day before, called him again.She gave the usual reply, however: "Mr. Armitage will not be in his office today. May I take the message?"This time, instead of ignoring her completely, a woman asked:
"Do you know whether there is
any truth in the rumor that Ralph Armitage has been hurt in an automobile accident?""I have heard no rumor, Madam, but I'll switch you on his father's wire, and you may be able to get
some information from him."Lynda had no idea that Ralph Armitage's office could be so still
and dull, but during the afternoon
the postman left two letters for
her, which surprised her very much. She had not expected that a letter from anyone would come to her at Armitage & Son's. She has received only two or three letters
before in all her life.She looked at the envelopes curiously. One was mailed from a
southern city, and contained nothing except a twenty-dollar bill. Although there was no written assurance, Lynda knew that her father or would not have been able to send her this, and there was no
one else to send her money—unless he had obtained some sort of position and was doing pretty well."Poor old Dad," she said to herself, the tears dropping on the
page. "After all, he is his own
worst enemy."The other letter was from David, and bewailed the fact that he had secured a job for her with Armitage & Son. One paragraph read:
"I did not know, Lyn, what a reputation Ralph Armitage had, or
I never would have recommended
you as a stenographer in the firm.
Of course, his father is a prince,
and I am sure you stand no nonsense in the office, even from his own son. I've never met young Ar-mitage, but I have been told he is one of the most fascinating of
men, and that the tragedy surrounding his marriage has added a
most romantic tinge of pity to everything he does or says, where
a woman is concerned.""Lynda, I am frankly jealous, and I wish that I could take you away
immediately from your entire environment, but here I am, bound to
the elder Armitage, who has been wonderfully good to me, and I cannot go to him and tell him just
what I have told you, as an excuse
for your leaving them, because it is his son of whom I am suspicious
and jealous."This letter made Lynda angry.
She felt that David should not intimate she ought to leave her job
because he had heard somethingabout the fascination of Ralph Ar-mitage. David should know, having grown up with her, that she could
take care of herself, even in the office of "the most fascinating of
men.""Why don't they leave me alone
—all of them?" she asked herself.
"Everyone seems bound to throw
me into Ralph Armitage's arms.
Dad intimated, before he went away, that he was the best market
I would ever know, and now David
hasn't enough confidence in me to let me fight my own battles. Will he tell me anything about it this morning? If he did, you are mighty close about it, I must say.""Mr. Armitage said that his son
had had a slight accident and
would not be down today, but he
asked me not to say anything about it in the office. I had to keep it close after that, didn't I?""Poor old Armi, it would have been just his luck to have killed
himself," said Emily, sympathetically. "I really feel very sorry for him at times. He isn't such a bad egg, you know. You really can't blame him for coping out as many good times as he can."Emily, however, was so glad to tell the news, that she bubbled over
with the information. Ralph had had his shoulder put out of joint, and a couple of ribs broken, trying not to run over a child."Yesterday, on his way to his home," said Emily, "a child ran out directly in front of Armi's car.
It looked as though it was sure
death, but he deliberately swung
his roadster into the ditch, and almost took the count himself. Wasn't that splendid? The afternoon papers are devoting most of the first page to him. Did the 'old
boss' tell you anything about it this morning? If he did, you are mighty close about it, I must say."Lynda was very much pleased that Emily did not wait for her to answer, as she did not want to tell
an untruth, and she had promised
Mr. Armitage, senior, not to say anything concerning the absence of his son.THE FOLLOWING USED CARS ARE

The Theater

Perhaps it wouldn't be betraying a confidence to announce subtly in this column that both "Speedy," the Harold Lloyd comedy and Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer" are booked for early appearances at the Bijou Theater.

For fear that Manager Jimmy Hibbert will get sore about us giving the dope away this way, however, we want you to keep this information under your hat and don't whisper it to a soul.

Of course everybody knew that an up and coming theater like the Bijou would bag these two box-office pippers just as soon as possible but we thought you might want to know it now so as to save yourself a trip somewhere to see one of these pictures and then have it come right here on the doorstep.

People who have seen "The Jazz Singer" pronounce it one of the finest things done on the gelatin for some time as it brings this famous stage comedian right into the hearts of his celluloid audience. Sometimes, you know, these legitimate stars fall down hard when they get in front of a camera. Not so, the rabbi's famous son (or, deprived of his "Mammy" song, as goes through the gestures just the same and everybody just feels like he can hear it anyway.

And oh, by the way, are you still laughing at Sidney Chaplin in "The Better Ole." If you're not it's because you didn't see it, because the screen provided so much more possibilities than DeWolf Hopper had when he brought it to the stage that it just naturally kept the giggles muscles agitated constantly.

Estelle Taylor did a piece called "The Whip Woman" over there last night and all of those who feel sorry for Jack Dempsey can quit reading this right now. Colleen Moore, who used to be a dog-gone good little actress in these Thursday and Friday in "Naughty But Nice" which has an attractive flavor.

Up at the Orplum the audiences turned out Wednesday night to see Art Acord, the Western star, who was seriously burned in a studio

SEEKS DAUGHTER 22 YEARS

Clinton Prince and his dog.

By DAVID H. GLICKMAN
Staff Writer for Central Press and
The Gazette

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 19.—Clinton Prince enjoyed a cozy home, the companionship of his wife and small daughter, and earned a good living as a carpenter—back in 1906.

Today he is virtually crippled by rheumatism, has no job, no real home and he has lost all trace of his "little girl," Rose, who, if she is alive, is about 22 years old.

Lost Wife in Quake

"Twas the time of the fire and earthquake," he says, in an accent reminiscent of the Pennsylvania Dutch. "My wife was killed in that disaster. Knowing that I was almost distracted with trying to care for my little 18-month-old Rose, a Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Herman said they would take her and keep her for me. And they said that I could see her whenever I wanted."

"They had a grocery store near my home. I've never been able to find them. They moved away. For years I was very sick with tuberculosis and thought I was going to die. I traveled around, working in many cities—but now I'm getting old and I'd like to see my daughter just once before I die."

Treasures Photo
With gnarled fingers he handles a little photograph about as big as a dime, topping a stickpin, that shows a chubby baby's head.

"I only have this picture of her," he goes on. "I've always worn it. But she doesn't look like this now, of course."

"A man who had a store in our neighborhood told me the Hermans had moved across the bay, in Alameda or Berkeley. I've written several letters, but they all came back marked 'unknown'. This man also told me that Mrs. Herman died a few months ago and I've been to lots of undertakers trying to find out if she died here—but I've failed at every clue."

"I hope to find her soon." There's

LOYALTY

There are many kinds of loyalty, of course. The word is much abused. Like the word patriotism. Patriotism meant one very definite thing to Nathan Hale when he faced death at the hands of his country's enemies. It means a very different thing, but equally definite, to a man who has flags for sale and wants to force you to buy them.

Loyalty, likewise, means different things to different people. When the coal miners and the railroad men were on strike in Kansas in the troublous days of the Industrial Court regime, I remember that the words loyalty and royal were used to describe every person in the state. The railroads and the mine operators referred to the workers who stayed with them as the loyal workers. The union chiefs, union men, and union sympathizers referred to those who walked out as the loyal men and to those who stayed on the job as—well, as something altogether different.

Not long ago I was talking to a Canadian government man in Nova Scotia. He was telling me about points of interest in the neighborhood. He said that in this vicinity settled many of these Americans who fled from the Thirteen Colonies during the American Revolution

a sob in his voice. "Just think—she has never seen me or known me. And I've missed her love all these years."

in order to avoid fighting against the King.

"You know," he said, "there were many of them. You call them loyalists."

"I beg your pardon," I interjected, "we call them traitors!"

It's in the point of view, like so many other things.

But I've been reading "Splendor," by Ben Ames Williams. It is a novel about newspaper folk. Mr. Williams senses and pictures the loyalty of the typical newspaper man to his paper. Now, I can understand that kind of loyalty. I have spent most of my life in its atmosphere.

There is nothing quite like it. Williams gives you a picture of his hero, who has just become a reporter. He is reading, with mighty personal pride, about the great new presses just installed by "his" paper. He is as proud as though he had designed and built the presses. Every newspaper man, young or old, will recognize that picture. The loyalty of the newspaper worker to his "sheet" is one of the strongest and mysterious forces I have ever observed at work in the human animal. It is one of the ingredients that goes into the making of the soul of a newspaper.

Blindfolded . . . in scientific test of leading Cigarettes, W. T. Benda selects Old Gold

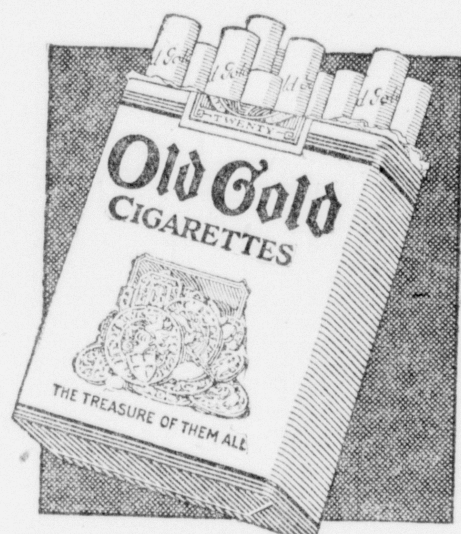

W. T. Benda, in his studio...while test was being made. In background may be seen some of the famous Benda masks.

W. T. BENDA

Eminent illustrator and creator of the Benda masks.

Only the heart-leaves of the tobacco plant are good enough for Old Gold. That's why you can pick them in the dark.

"I have been an inveterate cigarette smoker for years and my interest in cigarettes not only induced me to make this blindfold test, but to make it three times in succession.

"Each time I selected the same cigarette—OLD GOLD.

"However, there was no other choice that I could honestly make. OLD GOLD was so superior and its delicacy of aroma, its rich, full flavor so entirely free from any hint of sting or burn that it immediately appealed to my taste.

"Since the test I have been smoking OLD GOLDS steadily and I find that they are the most satisfying cigarettes I have ever smoked."

W. T. Benda

SEEKS DAUGHTER 22 YEARS

Clinton Prince and his dog.

By DAVID H. GLICKMAN
Staff Writer for Central Press and
The Gazette

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 19.—Clinton Prince enjoyed a cozy home, the companionship of his wife and small daughter, and earned a good living as a carpenter—back in 1906.

Today he is virtually crippled by rheumatism, has no job, no real home and he has lost all trace of his "little girl," Rose, who, if she is alive, is about 22 years old.

Lost Wife in Quake

"Twice the time of the fire and earthquake," he says, in an accent reminiscent of the Pennsylvania Dutch. "My wife was killed in that disaster. Knowing that I was almost distracted with trying to care for my little 18-month-old Rose, a Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Herman said they would take her and keep her for me. And they said that I could see her whenever I wanted."

"They had a grocery store near my home. I've never been able to find them. They moved away. For years I was very sick with tuberculosis and thought I was going to die. I traveled around, working in many cities—but now I'm getting old and I'd like to see my daughter just once before I die."

With gnarled fingers he handles a little photograph about as big as a dime, toying with it. It shows a chubby baby's head. "I only have this picture of her," he goes on. "I've always worn it. But she doesn't look like this now, of course."

"A man who had a store in our neighborhood told me the Hermans had moved across the bay, in Alameda or Berkeley. I've written several letters, but they all came back marked 'unknown.' This man also told me that Mrs. Herman died a few months ago and I've been to lots of undertakers trying to find out if she died here—but I've failed at every clue."

"I hope to find her soon." There's a sob in his voice. "Just think—she has never seen me or known me. And I've missed her love all these years."

The World And All

BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

LOYALTY

There are many kinds of loyalty, of course. The word is much abused. Like the word patriotism, patriotism meant one very definite thing to Nathan Hale when he faced death at the hands of his country's enemies. It means a very different thing, but equally definite, to a man who has flags for sale and wants to force you to buy them.

Loyalty, likewise, means different things to different people. When the coal miners and the railroad men were on strike in Kansas in the troublous days of the Industrial Court regime, I remember that the words loyalty and royal were used to describe every person in the state. The railroads and the mine operators referred to the workers who stayed with them as the loyal workers. The union chiefs, union men, and union sympathizers referred to those who walked out as the loyal men and to those who stayed on the job as well, as something altogether different.

Not long ago I was talking to a Canadian government man in Nova Scotia. He was telling me about points of interest in the neighborhood. He said that in this vicinity settled many of those Americans who fled from the Thirteen Colonies during the American Revolution

in order to avoid fighting against the King.

"You know," he said, "there were many of them. You call them loyalists."

"I beg your pardon," I interjected, "we call them traitors!"

"It's in the point of view, like so many other things."

But I've been reading "Splendor," by Ben Ames Williams. It is a novel about newspaper folk. Mr. Williams senses and pictures the loyalty of the typical newspaper man to his paper. Now, I can understand that kind of loyalty. I have spent most of my life in its atmosphere.

There is nothing quite like it. Williams gives you a picture of his hero, who has just become a reporter. He is reading, with mighty personal pride, about the great new presses just installed by "his" paper. He is as proud as though he had designed and built the presses. Every newspaper man, young or old, will recognize that picture. The loyalty of the newspaper worker to his "sheet" is one of the strongest and mysterious forces I have ever observed at work in the human animal. It is one of the ingredients that goes into the making of the soul of a newspaper.

CONVERT TO SPEAK AT WHITE CHAPEL

Plans have been changed for the evening service at New Jasper Sunday and instead of the service at night, the churches of the charge will unite for the meeting at White Chapel at 2:30 p. m. Sunday, at which time, "Methodist Sam" will tell his experiences in Austria and of his remarkable conversion.

The Rev. L. D. Vesey, Jamestown, will preach at New Jasper Sunday May 6, instead of April 22, as previously announced.

EXTEND TIME

Because inclement weather made it impossible to complete a survey, reports and schedules in connection with the projected improvement of the Lucas single-copy ditch by April 13, the prescribed date fixed by County Commissioners, County Surveyor W. J. Davis has petitioned for and has been granted an extension of time until May 21 within which to finish the work.

Blindfolded . . . in scientific test of leading Cigarettes, W. T. Benda selects Old Gold

Eminent illustrator and creator of the Benda masks.

Only the heart-leaves of the tobacco plant are good enough for OLD GOLD. That's why you can pick them in the dark.

"I have been an inveterate cigarette smoker for years and my interest in cigarettes not only induced me to make this blindfold test, but to make it three times in succession."

"Each time I selected the same cigarette—OLD GOLD."

"However, there was no other choice that I could honestly make. OLD GOLD was so superior and its delicacy of aroma, its rich, full flavor so entirely free from any hint of sting or burn that it immediately appealed to my taste."

"Since the test I have been smoking OLD GOLDS steadily and I find that they are the most satisfying cigarettes I have ever smoked."
